BRITISH BOMBARD CITIES ALONG THE COAST OF BELGIUM

Rumor of Attempt at Enterprise Which May Change Aspect of War in West.

BALKANS ARE WARLIKE

Interest in Fighting on East Front Overshadowed by Other Recent Events.

London, Sept. 25.—The development of events in the Balkans and on the Belgian coast, of which the general public have only the haziest knowledge now monopolizes attention, even the Russian front, where there have been heavy counter strokes against the Austro-Germans, being for the moment overshadowed. So far as the Balkans are concerned, the present crisis is considered more suited to military than diplomatic action, one minister stating that great developments are imminent. With Greece and Bulgaria armed against each other, and Rumania waiting to take sides, nothing less could be expected.

New Enterprise Rumored.

The British public, however, are more anxious to know what is happening nearer home. Since Monday last there has been a more or less continuous bombardment of Ostend, Zeebrugge and other points on the Belgian coast, and, according to rumor, an enterprise is being attempted which may change the whole aspect of the war on the western front.

The activity displayed by the British fleet apparently has not been left undisputed, for dispatches from Holland say that heavy firing has been heard on many occasions during the week to the north of Ameland, which would indicate that, if the Germans have not actually undertaken to oppose the British ships, part of the German fleet ventured out to learn what was happening. But, in the absence of either British or German official reports, everything is speculation.

Little News from the East.

This applies, too, to events on the Russian front, for, since the publication early this morning of the Russian communication nothing official has been received of developments there, except the Vienna report, which tells nothing except what was already known. The Russians are believed to be more than holding their own at various points along their line.

In the West the artillery is the only arm that could be considered at all active, while in the Dardanelles and on the Italian frontier the heavy gun fire has been only occasionally interrupted to give local detachments of infantry an opportunity to attack.

CAM. MORRISON'S FRIENDS WANT HIM TO HAVE THAT $9,000 JOB

Urge His Appointment to New York Port Position—Nothing Doing.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—Friends of Cameron Morrison, of Charlotte, have been active within the past few weeks endeavoring to have him appointed a member of the board of general appraisers for the port of New York. A vacancy exists on the board due to the death of Judge Henderson M. Sommerville, of Alabama. The position pays $9,000 a year and is almost equivalent to a life position, changes being except for cause.

The fact that Morrison was being urged for the place was given out by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo today. Senator Overman was at the Treasury Department yesterday but refused absolutely to discuss his mission with the President's son-in-law. He said that he had gone there on official business and would give no further enlightenment.

Inquiry at Mr. McAdoo's office today, however, developed the fact that while Senator Overman did not actually indorse Mr. Morrison, he would have done so had not Mr. McAdoo told him that the President had already decided upon a personal friend for the place.

Senator Simmons, it seems, had already written a strong letter to Mr. McAdoo urging the appointment of Mr. Morrison. Had there been any chance of Morrison landing this prize plum, the senior senator would have hurried to Washington and helped pull the wires in the intergst of the Charlotte attorney. Mr. Morrison's letters of indorsement are said to be equal to that famous wheelbarrow load sent up for Col. A. D. Watts, when the Statesville man was in distress over the appointment to his present job.

R. R. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Duff Merrick, of Asheville, and R. E. Smith, of Wilmington, are here. P. R. A.

TO TRY OUT COAST DEFENSES.

Maneuvers to Test Strength of Forts at New York, New London and Boston.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 25.—Maneuvers for trying out the coast defenses at New York, New London and Boston will be carried out next month between the forts and four divisions of destroyers, it was learned today. While the details were not made public, it is believed one object of the drills will be the testing of the efficiency of searchlights and the determination of ranges.

New Orleans, Sept. 25.—John M. Parker, from New Orleans, planter and cotton factor, intimate friend of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, and leader of the Progressive party in Louisiana, tonight announced his candidacy for governor.

SEES NO NEED FOR TARIFF COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, D. C. Library of Congress

Wilson Thinks Present Government Agencies Enough.

WRITES TWO LETTERS

Says Until War is Over and Conditions Restored It Will be Impossible to See How Business Has Adjusted Itself.

Washington, Sept. 25.—President Wilson believes the full powers of a tariff commission already are lodged in existing organs of the government, but if anything is lacking to give such powers efficiency he is in favor of doing it. The President made this clear in a letter to former Governor Cox, of Ohio, made public today at the White House, in reply to a letter in which the former governor advocated establishing a tariff commission.

In another letter, this one to Powell Evans, of Philadelphia, also made public today, the President pointed out that until the European war is over and normal conditions are restored, it will not be possible to determine how completely the business of the country adjusted itself to conditions.

To Mr. Cox the President said:

Thinks Machinery Already Exists.

"The full powers of a tariff commission are already lodged in existing organs of the government; most of them, and really more than the former commission had, in the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the Department of Commerce, and others (powers of investigation chiefly) in the hands of the new Federal Trade Commission.

"Perhaps it would be better if these various powers were assembled in the hands of one bureau or department but aside from that I think the machinery exists for a thoroughly scientific treatment of tariff questions. If anything is lacking to give these powers efficiency, I am, of course, heartily in favor of doing it."

Determine After War Ends.

To Mr. Evans he said:

"The re-constructive legislation which for the last two decades the opinion of the country has demanded and which political parties have vied with each other in promising in one form or another, has now been enacted. That programme is practically completed. Until the present European war is over and normal conditions have been restored it will not be possible to determine how readily or how completely the business of the country had adjusted itself to the new conditions. When that is clear instrumentalities already created will be ready and in operation, which will show just where the laws are working in harmony with the facts and where they are not."

POPULAR YOUNG CONCERT SINGER DIES IN NEW YORK

Miss Mildred Potter, of Spartanburg, S. C., Succumbs to Appendicitis.

Spartanburg, S. C., Sept. 25.—Miss Mildred Potter, one of the most popular of the younger singers on the concert stage, died of appendicitis Friday night in New York, according to a telegram from her mother received here today by Edmon Harris, director of the Spartanburg Music Festival, in which Miss Potter was the featured star the past two seasons.

Miss Potter's voice had won for her a wide popularity, especially in the South and West, and such critics as Walter Damrosch and Oscar Saenger had predicted a great future for her.

Miss Potter was born in St. Paul, Minn.

HELD HOSTAGE FOR 18 MONTHS; MAKES ESCAPE

Mexicans Demanded Big Ransom for Luis Terrazas, Jr.

His Son Also Was Held—Three Chihuahua City Jail Guards Reported Killed for Complicity in the Escape.

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 25.—After being held hostage for about 18 months, Luis Terrazas, Jr., son of General Luis Terrazas, together with his son, Guillermo Terrazas, have escaped from Chihuahua City and are enroute to the border overland, according to official Villa advices today. Three guards at Chihuahua jail are reported to have been shot on suspicion of complicity in the escape.

After the migration of the Terrazas family to the United States, abandoning their ranch, which included vast areas in the state of Chihuahua, Luis Terrazas, Jr., was caught and held hostage for the political activity of the family in the United States and incidentally for a ransom of $500,000 demanded of General Luis Terrazas on a threat to kill his son.

It is understood that part of the ransom was paid but the prisoner was not released. Subsequent ransoms were demanded and compromised but the prisoner was given only the liberty of the city under guard. It is said that nearly $1,000,000 was paid for the promised release of Luis without moving him nearer the border.

Guillermo Terrazas was held merely as a member of the Terrazas family.

NEGOTIATIONS ON LOAN MARK TIME

Commission Awaiting Word From Paris and London?

REPORT IS NOT DENIED

Short Session Held and Fewer Callers Than on Any Previous Day Were Received—Reported Terms Unchanged.

New York, Sept. 25.—Negotiations toward establishing a half billion dollar credit loan to Great Britain and France marked time today. Many of the American bankers who have been in consultation with the Anglo-French financial commission failed to visit the financial section over the short business session, and the commission itself erceived fewer callers than on any previous day of its stay here.

No one in close touch with the situation could be found who would deny a generally credited report that the commission had submitted to the British and French governments the rough draft of terms satisfactory to American bankers and was awaiting word from Paris and London before proceeding further with negotiations. The general belief was that a reply would be received here by Monday.

One report that was definitely denied was that the commission intended to depart for Europe next Saturday. No arrangements, it was said, had been made for their return home.

There appeared to be no change tonight in the reported tentative terms of the loan, the maximum to be $500,000,000 to be covered by an issue of joint Anglo-French five year notes bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent and to be sold to the investor at less than par. This figure as yet undetermined was said to be such as to yield the investor approximately 5 1-2 per cent.

IMPORTANT LAWS ENACTED BY ALABAMA LEGISLATURE

Stringent Prohibition Measures Considered to Be Most Important.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 25.—The most important legislation enacted by the session of the State legislature which cannot adjourn until the early hours of Sunday morning because of a mass of bills to be engrossed and signed, was putting Alabama in the prohibition column and making stringent laws relative to the shipment of liquors into the state, each citizen being limited to two quarts of whiskey or six dozen bottles of beer every two weeks. Other legislation embraced a complete arrangement of the revenue system of the state with new license and revenue bills.

The judicial system of the state was revolutionized and many courts and judges abolished. The state has been re-districted into ten districts instead of nine.

Comparatively little has been done for agriculture, the most important bill being a warehouse measure for the cotton crop. A bill was passed authorizing the use of state convicts on the coal lands of the state university, and more stringent regulations were adopted governing loan sharks.

THIRTEEN DRY KILNS BURNED.

Norfolk Lumber Firm Suffers Loss of from $100,000 to $150,000.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 25.—Fire early today destroyed 13 dry kilns filled with lumber at the Fosburgh Lumber Company plant and damaged the saw mill and machinery building. The loss is estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000. Officials of the company stated that the plant would be in operation on Monday and that all the burned kilns would be rebuilt.

HOLD-UP ON CROWDED STREET IN NEW YORK

Cashier Beaten and Robbed of $2,000 by Bandits.

No Attempt Made by Onlookers to Intercept the Robbers, Who Quickly Escaped in Automobile—Police Have Clue.

New York, Sept. 25.—One of the most daring of the numerous holdups by automobile bandits that have taken place in this city in the last year occurred today when three men sprang from an automobile to a crowded sidewalk, "blackjacked" Charles Fried, a cashier, until he was unconscious, robbed him of a satchel containing $2,000 in cash, jumped back into the automobile and sped away before an alarm could be given.

The robbery occurred on First avenue between Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth streets. The street was thronged with men and women, but the hold-up was carried out with so much daring and speed that no attempt was made to intercept the bandits. Fried, who is 29, was taking the money from the Fleischman bakery to the Germania bank. He was removed to a hospital and treated for contusions and lacerations of the head.

Persons who witnessed the robbery gave police the license number of the bandits' machine and a fair description of the trio.

ONE KILLED WHEN ANOTHER PART OF SUBWAY CAVES IN

Portion of Broadway, Near the Heart of New York's Theatre District Collapses.

THREE MORE INJURED

Accident Less Than Mile from That of Wednesday, When Seven Were Killed.

New York, Sept. 25.—One death and the injury of three other persons resulted from the caving in of the street over the new subway in Broadway near 38th street tonight. An unidentified woman, who was caught in the falling debris, died later in a hospital. The others injured were men. The police and firemen continued their search for several workmen reported missing.

The accident occurred a few blocks from the heart of the theatre district shortly before 8 o'clock and Broadway was crowded with people. The weakening of supports in the subway, due to weight of traffic, is believed to have caused the beams and planking to collapse, making a hole about fifty feet long extending about half way across Broadway. The pit was about 30 feet deep.

Two of the injured, a man and woman, were in an automobile that was carried down into the hole. The other person injured was believed to be a workman.

ARRESTED ON THE CHARGE OF SMUGGLING BULGARIANS

Charged With Bringing 800 or More From Canada Into United States.

Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Charged with smuggling 800 or more Bulgarians from Windsor, Ont., to Detroit, then to Toledo, Mike Tonoff, a Bulgarian, was arrested here today by government officers. The arrest followed affidavits made by one of the man brought across.

The call issued from Washington yesterday ordering 100 Bulgarian officers to report at New York preparatory to returning home brought about the expose of Tonoff's activities, officers say.

ENDS FIRST WEEK OF HIS INSPECTION TRIP

Rockefeller, Jr., Studying the Conditons of Miners.

In Colorado With Avowed Intention of Learning First Hand Conditions That Have Followed Strike of 1913-1914.

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 25.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., tonight completed the first week of his inspection of Colorado properties of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. Monday he plans to begin a series of conferences with company officials in Denver, to which whatever policies are to result from his inspection trip will be formulated. Mr. Rockefeller came to Colorado with the avowed intention of studying at first hand the labor conditions following the strike of 1913-14.

His time has been taken largely with meeting and talking with miners and inspecting the places where they live and toil. Prominently to the fore has been the investigation of the system of direct mediation inaugurated recently by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. Mr. Rockefeller at each camp sought out the miners' grievance representatives and talked with them directly about the practical working out of the plan.

This mediation system was called by John W. Lawson, a labor leeder in jail at Trinidad, a substitute for recognition of the union.

At Rouse, on Thursday, Mr. Rockefeller declared flatly that the company did not care whether its miners belonged to the United Mine Workers' union or not.

At Rockdale today he had a conference with a grievance representative who avowed himself a former striker and present member of the union. Confronted with a prospective invitation to confer with a committee representing the mine workers' international board he said he had not refused to meet any one and would not refuse to meet any one in the future.

Stockholm, Sept. 25 (via London).—A semi-official statement issued here denies that Swedish ships are being sold abroad, for the purpose of raising cash preparatory to Sweden's participation in the war. It is declared that no such sales are contemplated.

French President Comforting a French Hero.

No European ruler of the warring European nations, not even the Kaiser, spends more time among his troops than does President Poincare of France. This photograph shows him shaking hands with a wounded French hero and inquiring about his condition. The picture was taken very recently in the military hospital St. Nicholas at issy-les-Moulineaux.

COTTON PRICES DUE IN PART TO M'ADOO'S ACT

Governor Craig Says it Saved South Millions of Dollars

Says This Administration Stands by the Farmer and the Producer and Not the Speculator and Financier.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 25.—"I believe the declaration by Secretary McAdoo," said Governor Craig today, "that he was ready to put into the Southern banks $30,000,000 for the protection of the cotton crop had much to do with the present healthy condition of the cotton market. That one act of this administration and the attitude of the administration toward the South has saved us millions of dollars and brought comfort and plenty to the homes of our country.

"This administration stands by the farmer and by the producer and not by the speculator and the financier. This was not always so but it will be so as long as Woodrow Wilson is President and as long as the principles of Democracy control this country."

The Governor says the hot September has developed crops wonderfully and the people are full of hope, with conditions very different from last fall and with prospects for 12 instead of 7-cent cotton, with other crops in proportion, a most valuable lesson has been learned from last year's experience and the hard times from which the people are just emerging. And he is confident this State will soon become one of the richest agricultural sections.

Unconfirmed reports here said Villa was destroying the railway lines behind him as he retreated.

STATE T. P. A. PLANS BIG MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

At Enthusiastic Meeting in Greensboro Last Night.

Fifteen of the 21 Posts in North Carolina Represented—Committees Report—National President Tomlinson Heard.

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 25.—Enthusiasm ran high at the meeting here tonight of officers of the State division of the Travelers' Protective Association and representatives from 15 of 21 posts in North Carolina. A definite result is the assurance by local posts of a 40 per cent increase in membership during the year. The present membership is 1,757 in the State. Different posts promised to secure a definite number of new members.

The occasion was featured by a discussion by National President Chas. F. Tomlinson, of High Point, of conditions of the Association generally and especially with regard to the matter of increasing membership in the State.

Interesting reports were made by several of the committees and discussion of these were profitable. E. W. McNairy reported for the railroad committee; J. Frank Wilkes for the press committee; O. E. Wilson for the hotel committee; J. W. Cooper, for the employment committee; W. J. Arey for the good roads committee. Mr. Wilkes spoke of the liberality of the press to the organization, and urged the local posts to take advantage of it and preach the gospel of T. P. A.

The treasurer's report was very flattering and showed a nice gain over previous years. The membership committee said plans were on foot for posts at Salisbury, Henderson and Washington. President Tomlinson commented on the good roads report and urged maintenance and sign boards.

The meeting was held in the rooms of the chamber of commerce. Among those present were C. F. Tomlinson, of High Point, the National president; A. L. Byrd, State president; E. C. Clinard and W. R. Leak, Winston-Salem; F. A. Hewitt, Asheville; G. S. Edwards, of Rocky Mount; B. H. March, Winston-Salem; R. W. Carrier and C. C. McLean, of this city, all directors, and State Secretary D. C. Crutchfield, of Winston-Salem.

TOBACCO MEN OF COUNTRY TAKE STEP IN FORMING ORGANIZATION

Membership to be Representative of All Phases of the Industry.

New York, Sept. 25.—The initial step in the formation of an organization to be known as the Tobacco Merchants' Association of the United States was taken at a meeting here today of 200 retailers, growers, manufacturers and jobbers of tobacco and its products from all parts of the United States. The purpose of the organization which will include in its membership all phases of the industry will be to protect trade names and trade marks, to eliminate trade frauds and price cutting, and the obtaining of needed legislation and the furtherance of the interests of tobacco dealers generally.

Speakers at today's meeting declared that a general organization such as planned would solve the problems of the tobacco industry, the total annual business of which was said to be $700,000,000. They called attention to the fact that this business pays $111,000,000 annually in taxes and should be represented by a united organization to promote its interests.

NAFARATTE DENIES CARRANZA TROOPS HAD PART IN FIGHT

General Funston Reports Soldiers "In Uniform" Helped Raiders to Escape.

MEXICANS FIRED FIRST

Carranza Has Directed Investigation; Better Border Conditions Expected.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Major General Funston, commanding United States troops on the border, and General Nafaratte, the Carranza commander, both disclaim for their men responsibility for the fighting yesterday near Progreso, Texas, in which one American trooper was killed and an officer was wounded, while the casualties of the Mexican raiders are not known.

Reporting to the War Department today, General Funston said his men had repelled the raiding party which fled across the border under the protection of soldiers "in uniform" who were entrenched on the other side. The Carranza agency gave out a telegram from General Nafaratte, asserting that there were no Carranza troops in the vicinity.

Mexicans Fire First.

A full report on recent fighting along the border was made to the State Department today by the War Department. It states that in no case have American soldiers begun the firing, but it is admitted that civilians and deputy sheriffs in Texas have provoked some attacks. In yesterday's fight it is asserted an armed force invaded American territory and that this party was repulsed.

Officials here are frankly puzzled over the border situation. General Carranza has directed General Jacinto Trevino to make a thorough investigation and a clearer understanding of conditions along the Rio Grande is expected to result. Until authentic information is obtained as to the cause of the raids, the policy of the American government will be unchanged and while raiders will be driven off, American troops will not be permitted to cross into Mexico in pursuit.

Explains Angeles' Visit.

Explaining the visit of General Felipe Angeles to Washington, the Villa agency issued a statement tonight, saying:

"General Felipe Angeles wishes to state that he has arrived in Washington, as a member of the delegation appointed by the military chiefs of the provisional government to represent it in the peace conferences planned in accordance with the invitation of the Pan-American conferees on August 2.

"Published reports that General Angeles has deserted from the convention army are false. These reports appear to have been inspired in Carranzista sources in El Paso, Texas."

Stop Seizure of Cattle.

The State Department was advised today that representations made to General Carranza had resulted in orders designed to prevent a repetition of the seizure of cattle belonging to American citizens.

The department was recently informed that Carranzistas had seized cattle belonging to American citizens on the railroad between San Luis Potosi and Tampico.

A dispatch from El Paso announced the arrival of 150 Americans from Torreon, Durango and Chihuahua.

SEARCH MISSING SOLDIER.

Private Richard J. Johnson, Lost in Mexican Raid, Has Not Reported.

Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 25.—With conditions quiet at all ponits along the Texas-Mexican border, United States troops today began a systematic search for Richard J. Johnson, a private of troop B, 12th cavalry, reported as missing after the fight with Mexican raiseds at Progreso yesterday. Up to a late hour tonight no trace of him had been found.

Johnson and two other troopers were stationed on the bank of the Rio Grande where a number of the raiders crossed into Mexico. His two companions reported after the fight, but neither could say what became of Johnson.

The body of Private Henry Stubblefield, killed in yesterday's engagement, was brought to Brownsville tonight, and will be sent to Big Stone Gap, Va., tomorrow for burial.

CONFESSES KILLING SALOON KEEPER WITH INTENT TO ROB

Man Arrested Claims to Be Member of Well-to-Do Oklahoma Family.

Philadelphia, Sept. 25.—John Frank Anderson, 23 years old, who says he is a member of a well-todo family in Ardmore, Okla., was arrested in a hotel [illegible] and confessed, according to the police, that he shot and killed James Campbell, a saloonkeeper, in the latter's place of business here last night. His purpose was robbery. He also said he was the man who attempted to hold up and rob another saloon in this city. Anderson told detectives he was a machinist and arrived in Philadelphia three days ago out of funds. He tried to obtain work, he said, but failed. He then added he decided on the hold up.

Ardmore, Okla., September 25.—L. P. Anderson, vice president and director of a National bank here, said today he believed that John Frank Anderson, under arrest in Philadelphia, is his son.

MAJOR LEAGUE LEADERS STILL RETAIN APPARENTLY SAFE LEAD

New York, Sept. 25.—Runners-up in both major leagues failed to improve their chances of wresting the pennant away from the leaders in the week ending tonight. The Detroit Tigers won two games today, while the Boston Red Sox were winning one, and thereby decreased the lead of the Red Sox in the American League to four and one-half games. Monday morning the Tigers were three and one-half games behind.

The Philadelphia Nationals' victory today places them within easy reach of definitely deciding the race in their favor. With a lead of six and one-half games over Boston, the Phillies have to win only three of their remaining nine games. After winding up their series at Chicago tomorrow the Phillies come east to meet Brooklyn and Boston.

The Red Sox have only one game to play at home, that with St. Louis on Monday, and have open dates until Friday when they go to Washington for two games and then finish the season with a five-game series at New York. The Tigers have six remaining games. After finishing the series with Washington on Tuesday the Tigers have no games scheduled until Saturday, when they return home to wind up the season with Cleveland.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Jim Lavender, acting as relief pitcher, was wild and the league leaders won out 5 to 4 in the 11th inning, making it four out of five for the series.

The locals came from behind and tied the count in the ninth inning with McCarthy's homer following Williams' double. Demaree settled down after ths assault and held Chicago safe. Manager Bresnahan used a recruit pitcher named J. Bradley Hogg, who came from the Mobile club of the Southern League, and his wildness gave Philadelphia an early lead. Today's defeat put Chicago in last place again.

Philadelphia . .001 200 100 01—5 10 0
Chicago . . . . . .200 000 002 00—4 9 3

St. Louis, Sept. 25.—Doak was easy for New York today while Herbert, a recruit from the International League, held St. Louis to six hits and the visitors took their second straight game from the locals 5 to 3. Sallee, who replaced Doak in the fourth, after four runs had been forced, allowed New York but one hit. Umpire Byron stopped the game in the third inning to order Brainard from the New York bench for loud talking, giving one minute to leave. When Brainard refused to go Byron extended the time one minute, threatening to forfeit the game. Brainard waited the full time and then left.

Cincinnati, Sept. 25.—Brooklyn made 16 hits off three Cincinnati pitchers today and won easily 8 to 4. Daubert made a two-bagger and a home run while Stengel's triple in the second was good for two runs. Stengel later scored on Wheat's single. Coombs was forced from the mound in the fifth inning. Marquard who took his place held them safe for the remainder of the game.

WAKE FOREST TRAMPLES OVER FLORENCE Y. M .C. A.

Eighty to Nothing Represents Baptists' Victory in Season's Opener.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Wake Forest, N. C., Sept. 25.—Wake Forest trampled over the Florence Y. M. C. A. eleven today with a score of 80 to 0 in the opening game of the season for both teams. The Baptists made 12 touchdowns and Billings kicked eight field goals. Wake Forest registered her first touchdown after three minutes of play and from then on they scored almost at will. The Baptists used straight football tactics and did not resort to the open game save on two occasions when the forward pass was worked for good gains. Straight line bucks mixed with sweeping end runs enabled the Baptists to march down the field time after time.

The visitors were powerless before the Baptists' attack and they were equally as helpless on the offense. Only once during the entire game were they able to make first down, a pretty forward pass, Bass to Cooper, netting them the required distance. Their attempts to penetrate the Baptists' line were in vain and they were forced to resort to a punting game whenever they had the ball. Their several fumbles, too, proved costly. At no stage of the game did they threaten the Baptists' goal line.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 25.—Princeton's eleven took advantage of Georgetown's weakness in fundamentals this afternoon and defeated the visitors 13 to 0 in the first football game of the season here. Mrs. Brower was in the 58th year of her age and was greatly loved and esteemed by those who enjoyed her acquaintance.

The body, after being prepared for burial at Rocky Mount, was brought to Wilmington yesterday morning and taken to the home of Mrs. Brower's daughter, Mrs. J. B. Taylor, No. 310 North Seventh street. The funeral will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon from Bladen Street M. E. church, by the former pastor of the deceased, Rev. George B. Webster, assisted by Rev. T. G. A number of friends called at the home of Mr. Taylor yesterday and last evening to tender their condolences to the bereaved ones.

Mrs. Brower is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Taylor, of this city; three sons, Mr. F. L. Brower, of Birmingham, Ala., who with Mrs. Brower, accompanied the remains to Wilmington, and Messrs. F. J. and W. C. Brower, of Rocky Mount. There are also surviving two brothers, Messrs. E. F. and J. H. Vestal, of Asheboro, both of whom are here for the funeral, and one sister, Mrs. J. A. Baldwin, of Randleman. SHORTAGE IN FREIGHT CARS NOW INDICATED

Heavy Volume of Traffic This Fall is Predicted.

Since Mecklenburg Failed to Get Reduction of Tax Assessment, Scotland Won't Try—Inland Waterways Delegates.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 25.—As indicating an expectation of considerable increase in the volume of freight to be moved the next few months and a general wave of prosperity in consequence of this, the Public Service Commission, Baltimore, has sent out a general circular to railroads, shippers and consignees of freight to the effect that the present indications are that there will be an unusually heavy movement of carload freight in grains, coal, cement, fertilizer and the like during the fall months and that the railroads will probably find it difficult to furnish a full supply of cars to meet the demands, and the interests of all can be best served by the most prompt loading and unloading and handling of cars in order to obtain the maximum service from the available equipment.

Scotland Won't Appeal.

W. H. Witherspoon, of Laurinburg, who was here Wednesday when the Corporation Commission gave a special hearing to the Mecklenburg county delegation in the 15 per cent. raise by the commission of the real estate tax assessment against that county, has since written Secretary A. J. Maxwell, of the commission, that he left a pound box of chololate almonds on the tables in the commission court room, and directing Mr. Maxwell to treat the commission on him as the commissioners "will likely enjoy them since their experience with the Mecklenburg delegation," whose plea was of no avail.

It is interesting in this connection that there had been an engagement for a Scotland county delegation to have a hearing on the 30 per cent. increase in the assessment against that county next Tuesday, but Mr. Weatherspoon, for the county authorities, writes the commission that the conclusion is that it is not worth while to incur further expense in that connection and that the whole matter is left to the best judgment and mercy of the commission with the assurance that Scotland will do whatever is required in this connection. The Corporation Commission has issued an order declining to decrease the Mecklenburg assessment.

New Corporations.

New corporations were chartered today as follows:

The J. M. Reece Publishing Company, of Greensboro, capital $25,000 authorized and $20,500 subscribed by Alice M. Reece, J. A. Williams and Sue R. Williams, for publishing the Greensboro Record and doing a general printing business. The incorporation is in consequence of the recent death of Editor J. M. Reece, of The Record, who was owned of the plant.

The Lexington Auto Company, of Lexington, capital $10,000 authorized and $2,500 subscribed by W. E. Raper, Demot Shemwell and E. E. Raper for general automobile business.

The Raleigh Christo-Cola Bottling Works (Inc.), of Raleigh, capital $10,000 authorized and $4,000 subscribed by J. Winder Bryan and others.

To Entertain Waterways Delegates.

The Raleigh city commission and the Chamber of Commerce have decided to arrange a special programme of entertainment for the 200 or more delegates to the convention of the Atlantic Inland Waterway Association when they pass through Raleigh November 8 on their way to Savannah, Ga., for the annual convention. The party will take breakfast at the Yarborough hotel that morning and then will be shown the city, automobiles being used for the purpose. This arrangement is the result of a conference yesterday between Congressman J. H. Small, of this State, Congressman J. Hampton Moore, of Pennsylvania, and Governor Craig, Mayor James I. Johnson and President John A. Park, of the Chamber of Commerce.

BRYAN WILL PROBABLY TALK ABOUT THE EUROPEAN WAR

When He Speaks at Greensboro Friday Night—To Eschew Politics.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 25.—It is understood that former Secretary of State William J. Bryan will speak upon certain phases of the European war when he comes here Friday night, October 8th. He is not to speak upon any purely political question and politics will probably not be referred to except incidentally. He will speak in the grand opera house under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. He comes here at the urgent request of Hon. A. L. Brooks, a warm admirer, and other friends. Preparations by local committees will be on a large scale and every effort will be made to accommodate out-of-town people.

TOBACCO BRINGS HIGH PRICES.

Wilson Market Reaches High Water Mark—500,000 Pounds Friday.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., Sept. 25.—Tobacco reached high water mark Friday on the local market. One sale serves as an illustration. Mr. W. H. Scott brought in 912 pounds of bright leaf, composed of eight piles of different grades. The best pile sold for $40 a hundred and the lowest grade brought $8.75, making the average price paid Mr. Scott $23.45 per hundred pounds. This was, in a sense, an exceptional load of leaf, but taking the sales through the price was stronger. Over 500,000 pounds of leaf was sold Friday.

COTTON GRADER FOR WILSON.

To be Furnished by Government—County Pays Part of Expense.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., Sept. 25.—Wilson is to have a government cotton grader. This was settled this morning when the county commissioners agreed to aid in the expense. The cotton ginners of the county have agreed to draw samples of the cotton from every bale when it is ginned, seal the samples in the envelopes provided by the government, and send them to the grader.

TRAVELING SALESMAN DIES SUDDENLY IN CLINTON HOTEL

Mr. E. H. Thomson, of Durham, Passes Away—Well Known and Popular.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Clinton, N. C., Sept. 25.—E. H. Thomson, a traveling salesman whose home was Durham, but who was traveling out of Raleigh for the Fiske Rubber Company, died suddenly in his room at the Montague hotel here last night. A physician reached him shortly before his death, but was unable to save him. During the evening he had complained of not feeling well and consulted a physician who prescribed for him. He had retired and seemed to be resting well when seized by the fatal attack and soon passed away. Some affection of the heart was the immediate cause of his death.

The deceased was aged 32 years and a son of E. S. Thomson, of Greensboro, who is a well known traveling man. The father and a brother arrived here today and will accompany the body to Orange, Va., where it will be interred Monday morning. Friends who knew him well speak in the highest terms of the deceased, who is said to have been a big hearted, generous fellow and much loved by all who knew him.

A card was received at the Hotel Wilmington last night from Mrs. E. S. Thompson, of Greensboro, asking that the mail of her son, Mr. Ed H. Thomson, who was due here yesterday, be forwarded to her at Greensboro, on account of the death of her son. The death occurred Friday night some little time before Mr. Thompson was to catch a train for this city.

Mr. Thompson had a large number of friends here where he made regular trips, who regret to learn of his death.

BRUSSELS BEFORE THE WAR AND AT PRESENT

Not the Same City It Was Two Years Ago and More.

Visitors Who Knew its Former Vitality and Volubility Now Amazed at the Quietude of the Place —Explanation.

(The Associated Press.)

Brussels, Sept. 25.—Visitors who knew Brussels before the war and who then were struck with its vitality and the volubility of its citizens now are amazed at the quietude of the place.

What has brought about the dumbness is, in the first place, the knowledge that every one is under constant surveillance, not only by soldiers but by secret German agents and that every chance word may lead to arrest and probably deportation to a concentration camp in Germany, where the Mayor of Brussels, M. Max, now is.

In the street cars, in the stores and on the streets the citizens seldom converse even when relatives or close friends are together and should a stranger address them the reply is usually just plain "No!" or "Yes;" or "I don't know!"

On the street cars a passenger will sometimes remark about a rumored military action — for rumors of all kinds are current in the city in the absence of local newspapers—at the same time expressing in a low voice his pleasure if the German troops have suffered a slight reverse. The others in the car never respond, since many of their compatriots have fallen into the trap and, after giving utterance to their opinions to the "sympathetic" stranger, have been arrested and heavily fined or imprisoned, or both.

Many men and women immediately change seats should a German soldier take a seat next to them in the car. Others get up without a word and leave the car at the next stopping place.

Dumb hostility can be observed everywhere and the Germans notwithstanding their efforts, seem unable to gain the confidence of the Brussels people.

There appear to be as many secret German agents—some of them Belgians—as there are soldiers in Brussels. They are encountered everywhere. In the cafes it is declared they listen to every chance remark of the customers; they form into line with the Belgian applicants for passes at the official permit office; they mix with the poor people waiting for their supply of food from the relief commissions. Anything that may be said against the German authorities is certain to be overheard and reported, for the secret agents are linguists who speak French and Flemish and many of the dialects.

This constant surveillance, with the increasing poverty of the Belgian laboring classes, has a very depressing effect. Hope and conviction that at some future unknown period their country will again be free enables them to bear patiently the discomforting presence of the German troops, but the coming winter is awaited with some trepidation. The poor, despite their habitual thrift, have almost reached the end of their resources. In consequence of the stoppage of many industries, the number of unemployed is growing rapidly and as a result savings made before the war have been in many cases exhausted.

On July 31 official figures showed that there were in the whole of Belgium 734,000 workers, including both sexes, and this number has since been added to. In Brussels and its suburbs alone there were just over 88,000 without work, besides nearly 27,000 women and 42,000 children under 16 years old receiving relief. Hundreds of the skilled workers have managed to leave the country to seek work elsewhere or to join the ranks of the army. Most, however, are unable to find the means to secure guides to take them over the Dutch frontier without passes, which are next to impossible to obtain.

Recent decrees issued by the German governor-general in Brussels have made life even more difficult for the laborers, who decline to carry out work which might assist the German authorities. Prosecution and punishment are threatened for all workmen who refuse work when it is offered them, while any one who by means of relief sustains a workman in his refusal also renders himself liable to severe punisament. In the last week of August teh Belgian National bank was fined $5,000 because one of its clerks paid out $500 to the order of a Belgian depositor now a refugee in Holland.

—the enclosed car is best for you

If you want your investment working for you the year 'round—if you want a car that is at your service every day and in all kinds of weather—then you want an enclosed car—and of all enclosed cars the modern Detroit Electric is at once preferred and the most practical.

In the Detroit Electric you have roomy comfort for all passengers and a simplicity of mechanism which enables each member of your family to drive it in perfect safety. The motor—producing a continuous, vibrationless power flow—is so mechanically efficient that but rarely does it need attention. The higher capacity battery of exclusive Detroit Electric design (guaranteed) provides greater mileage without need for recharging than you ordinarily use in an entire day's motoring. And from the standpoint of upkeep cost the Detroit Electric is most economical. Current for battery charging is furnished at low rates ($5 to $7 per month) and is growing lower constantly. TOP O' THE MORNING

If you want to have backbone in your character, if you want a peace that cannot be shaken by anything in earth or hell, if you want a courage that will quail not before any task life will ever bring, the royal road to these things is to have behind you and within you the Christ of the New Testament, the Eternal, Changeless, Omnipotent Son of God.

The monster battleship Dakota, put in commission five years ago under a Republican administration, at a cost of millions of dollars, is found to be unfitted for service till repairs are made at a cost of $500,000. The Rads are nice folks to talk about the unpreparedness of the navy.

Women rejoice at the opportunity to lay aside an old hat for one of the latest style, but the only way to wean a man off from his old straw lid, when the season begins to crowd him, is to head him off in the hall and take his old straw when he is starting down town. Even then he wants his old hat saved for next season. To deprive a man of his old hat is almost on a par with banishing a cat from a home that it considers good enough for any old cat.

We object to Col. Al Fairbrother's bothering about writing anything for Everything. Our Uncle Al is not himself physically and it is necessary for him to let work alone till he mends up a bit. We regret that his health is such that he has to lay off, but we are sure his friends would much prefer for the doctors to give him a little arbitrary treatment unless he submits to discipline. With the rugged constitution that is his, he has a good chance to recruit so he can come back for another drive. Of course, your old uncle wants to be doing something, but it may be necessary to be rough with him and not allow any paper, pens, ink or typewriter or stenographers to be areund his premises. We hope he will soon be on his feet again, making Everything hum as usual.

YE RISE IN COTTON

Republicans will note that President Wilson, whom they have been holding responsible for the low price of cotton since the European war started, has relented and permitted the price to go up to 11 cents in Wilmington yesterday. In the cotton country, where the buyers are competing for the staple, it has been selling above 11 cents. The cotton futures and spot markets both took another advance in New York yesterday, as will be seen by The Star's market reports this morning. These advances practically have been of daily occurrence for a week.

In the South yesterday, the port markets gave out the following quotations for middling spot: Galveston 11.40; New Orleans 11 1-4; Savannah 11.13; Mobile 11.13; Charleston 11; Wilmington 11; Norfolk 11.13. Interior markets were all the way from 11 to 11 1-8 cents. President Wilson must have decided to quit holding down the price of cotton, so now cross-roads Republican economists will have to explain how it is possible for cotton to sell at a good price while a Democrat is president. Probably they will explain that cotton has gone up on account of conditions brought about by the war in spite of a Democratic administration.

Why didn't they explain a year ago that cotton had gone down on account of war conditions in spite of a Democrat administration? Farmers who may have been fooled will probably want to know, if cotton is now selling at 11 cents in spite of the Democrats, why it was that cotton last year sold at 7 and 8 cents in spite of the Democrats, "without waiting for the action of any other nation."

A turn in the market from low to high, or from high to low, all because of market conditions and the law of supply and demand, shows how ridiculous is the idea of some people that politics has anything more to do with the price of cotton, than the man in the moon. This is a good time for people who don't care to be fooled to study economics a little so they may know the logical reasons for the rise and decline of commodity prices.

There are some people who will not be as glad as we are that cotton has gone to selling at 11 cents and above. They are the manufacturers in the North and in Europe and the wearers of cotton fabrics who do not live in the cotton producing area. Cotton yarns in New England have advanced from 2 to 4 cents, according to grade. There are two reasons for that—higher raw cotton for one, and because the manufactruers of automobile tires have invaded the market as active buyers. The manufacture of automobiles is on a big boom. The annual report of the Maxwell Motor Company, just published in New York, shows that even during the war year the company made a clear profit of $2,337,950 against profits of $1,430,444 in 1913-1914. The campany's net working assets have increased to $7,165,000 compared with $5,835,000 at the close of the last fiscal year of the company.

While we will get better prices for our raw cotton, wearers of cotton goods will have to pay higher prices. The cotton goods markets in New York and New England are active and strong. Heavy cotton goods are being advanced sharply in price, some from 2 1-2 to 5 per cent. Sales for the past week have been very large, the market reports say, and the same applies practically to all kinds of cotton fabrics, hosiery, and cotton goods of all descriptions.

The demand in the cotton mills of New England has been so great that they are short of goods, with the result that they have to buy cotton to keep their mills running. Prosperity seems to be steadily meandering along and the activity which struck the North first, as it always does where the interests are so much greater, has now struck the South and it seems that good times are fast approaching.

Another piece of good news is that the price of sugar has been cut from the high war levels, the refiners making it a daily business to cut prices on each other for refined sugars.

The iron and steel markets are on a tremendous boom, and the United States has been forced to hurry into the markets for its iron and steel supply, for fear that during the next twelve months the manufacturers will be so pressed that Uncle Sam will get left if he does not purchase now.

The cotton market is getting snappy, and snappy times seem to be just ahead of us, in spite of the war in Europe. If the war should end, a possibility yet remote, the business of this country would run away with itself.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE FOR PRESIDENT.

Next year at this time we will be on the eve of a Presidential election. Within nine months we shall know who are to be the nominees of the parties and what parties are to make nominations. We know the distinguished man who is to be the standard bearer of the Democracy and there is not even a doubt as to the nomination of President Wilson for a second term. It is pretty certain that the only opposition will come from the Republican party, but who is to be its nominee none of the political seers can predict. In fact, the party seems to be at sea as to a nominee, although it has several able men who are eligible for the nomination.

Usually at this time in advance of a presidential campaign it has been pretty certain as to who would be the nominees of the parties, but so far as the Republican party is concerned there is nothing to indicate the man to be named by the Republicans. However, it is said that they are laying careful plans for the presidency, not unmindful of the great popularity of President Wilson and the difficulty of finding a man who will have any showing against him.

The particularly well informed staff correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce writes from Washington to his paper that there is now something doing in Republican circles. He says they are talking candidates and that it is desired that a candidate be found who will command the support of both the so-called stand-pat Republicans and the quondam followers of Roosevelt. He mentions only the possible candidacy of Senator Burton, of Ohio, and it is remarked that his coming out for a large army and navy indicate that "he is sufficiently astute to realize that to make a successful candidate for the presidency he must advocate those things for which ex-President Roosevelt stands sponsor."

That makes it look as if Roosevelt again will have it in his power to dictate a candidate to the Republican party or bring about the defeat of any candidate that it may name without getting his O. K.

THE INLAND WATERWAY PROJECT

Raleigh had the advantage on Friday of being host for a few hours to two of the livest waterways and harbor men in this country. They were Representatives J. Hampton Moore, of Pennsylvania, and John H. Small, of North Carolina, Congressman Moore is president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, of which Congressman Small is a most active member. These two congressmen, the former a Republican and the latter a Democrat, are one in their enthusiasm for a great waterways development for America.

They spoke specially about the inland waterway project, a national enterprise of the first importance to North Carolina, and both the congressmen declared that the coastal waterway will produce a Panama, and then several Panamas for business, besides providing the whole Atlantic coast with the most powerful defensive means that could be devised.

The cost of the canal will be $47,800,000, and the greater portion of that cost will be for completing the canal north of the border of North Carolina, since the vast inland waters of this State can be developed at a very small cost compared with the whole. From the Cape Fear to Beaufort inlet, Mr. Moore said, the cost of construction would be $2,872,111, and from the Cape Fear to Florida it would be only $14,400,000. From Beaufort to the New England states the cost would be $33,400,000, according to estimates of the army engineers.

Owing to its great naval and military advantage, Mr. Moore regards the Atlantic waterway a more serious and important undertaking than ever conceived heretofore by the friends of the project.

NEW LINE OF MANUFACTURING.

Indeed, a new industrial expansion has struck North Carolina, well calculated to diversify our manufactured output. Roller mill establishments are going up all over the State and machinery for mills is in demand. Nearly every daily and weekly newspaper mentions a new roller mill enterprise. To the State's other manufactures there will be added family flour, meal and grits.

The reason is that North Carolina this year has grown more wheat than will be necessary to supply her people with flour. There will be a surplus to sell. The big wheat crop has brought about the erection of numerous roller mills, for North Carolina will manufacture her own flour instead of selling her grain.

This will save in the State the profit on the grain, the cost of manufacture, and the profit on the manufactured product. Besides that, the bran will be left at home for stock and the straw can be utilized for various purposes. North Carolina's 11,267,000-bushel wheat crop this year will be worth, in the finished state, not less than $15,000,000. Heretofore a large proportion of this amount has been annually sent out of the State for wheat products, on which not less than $50,000 will be saved in freight.

TO THE PUBLIC.

To the Editor of The Star:

From the indictment found against me by the grand jury of the late term of the Superior Court as published in the morning and evening papers one would think I had been guilty of buying votes, whereas, it was only a technicality in the expense account as filed by me. The Election Board gave me permission to spend $200. I filed my account with them, also with the City Clerk and Treasurer. My report, which was a true and honest one, showing an expenditure of $127.00 was published in The Morning Star on June 3rd, 1915. My majority, over my opponent, was 790 votes which should indicate that I did not have to buy votes to be elected.

It looks like I have been indicted for truthfulness and honesty as I have not been guilty of any fraud.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Between the Wilmington Star and the Charlotte Observer an excellent editorial on turning money loose has been collaborated. Without adding to it more than endorsement, we pass it along, thus: "The situation and the remedy were never more aptly stated than in a brief editorial in the Wilmington Star, and The Observer passes it along for application to almost every community in the South. The country has an abundance of money—more than it has had since the war, but money in hand is one thing, and money in circulation is another. As The Star states the case: 'We will have to let the dollar go if we expect conditions to improve and a normal situation to come about as a consequence. Fortunately, the financial situation is now such that everyone of us can afford to do that. Producers, consumers, debtors and creditors owe it to themselves to do something to ease up the situation brought about by sitting tight for the last 12 months. They have the means of doing it now but could not do so last year, for we did not have the financial facilities that have been provided by the Federal Reserve banking act. It is now the debtors' turn to do something for the creditors so that all in the same boat may go sailing on together. It is time to liquidate, so the business and industry of the country can catch up with the procession. Business and industry saved the day last year, and producers and debtors must save the day this year'."—Greensboro Record.

It would be our verdict that in the little bout with the Mecklenburg citizens Chairman Travis won handily in the first round—and it is to be borne in mind that the Daily News is no blind partisan of Mr. Travis', at that.—Greensboro News.

It is to laugh! When it comes to talking about that trip to Raleigh by the delegation protesting against the raise in taxes. It was only yesterday that The Observer struck one of the number who was disposed to tell what actually happened, and he pulled out a little map as a sample of what the Corporation Commission shook in the faces of the delegation. This little map showed Mecklenburg properly bounded by Iredell, Rowan, Cabarrus, Union, Gaston and Lincoln counties, all traced off in townships. Each township carried two sets of figures. One was in green ink; the other in red. The green showed the old assessment and the red represented the revised. Then the Corporation Commission pointed out the assessment for any certain township in Mecklenburg and offset it with a corresponding assessment in some neighboring township. And in all instances it was in evidence that farm lands in Mecklenburg have the advantage of a lower rate of assessment than the farm lands in adjoining counties. The commission had the data and had it in proper shape. The protesting delegation had data of a sort, but had it in no shape. It went there with a pocketful of generalities and was met with a concise set of facts. "They had us," said the possessor of the map—which he will probably keep as a souvenir—"and it reminded me of a set of school boys who would go up to the teacher and ask to be let off to go fishing, and instead, get a licking and be sent back to books."—Charlotte Observer.

Philadelphia, Sept. 25.—A touchdown following a forward pass in the first period gave the University of Pennsylvania victory over West Virginia University today in the first football game of the season on Franklin field by the score of 7 to 0.

GRAND JURY RETURNS MANY PRESENTMENTS

Twenty-Three for Consideration of Next Court.

Judge Rountree Thanks Jurors for Faithful Performance of Duties. Recommendations Made for County Roads.

After two weeks of hard work, one of which was devoted principally to an investigation of the manner in which recent city elections were conducted, the grand jury made its report at the final session of the September term of Superior Court yesterday morning. The jury passed on 42 bills, 40 of which were found to be true bills and two not true bills, and returned 23 presentments. Judge Rountree in discharging the jury thanked the jurors for the faithful manner in which they performed their arduous duties.

Whether or not any of the presentments made have anything to do with the conduct of recent elections in the city or county cannot be learned until the next grand jury meets and acts upon them, as they were sealed and placed in the hands of Maj. W. N. Harriss, Clerk of the Superior Court, who will keep them in a vault until the next term of criminal court, which will be convened on November 15th.

Only one case was tried in Superior Court yesterday, this being that of Joseph Newkirk, colored, who was charged with forcible trespass. He was found not guilty.

No further action has been taken on the indictments returned Thursday afternoon by the grand jury against Mayor Moore, Councilmen W. J. Bradshaw, L. M. Bunting and W. F. Jones, former Councilman D. N. Chadwick and Superintendent of Streets John J. Furlong, charging them with irregular practices in recent city elections. No arrests have been made nor have they been asked to appear to be recognized for the next term of court.

The grand jury made a number of recommendations relative to the county roads. The complete report to the court is as follows:

"To His Honor, Geo. Rountree, Judge of Superior Court of New Hanover County, North Carolina.

"We, the grand jury of the September term, Superior Court, beg to submit the following report:

"We have passed on 42 bills, 40 of which were found to be true bills and two not true bills, and have made 23 presentments.

"We have made the required inspections of the county institutions and make the following report:

"Court House in fair condition and well kept.

"County jail in fair condition and food ample and wholesome. Some of the prisoners complain of bed clothing not being changed enough, also find that one of the cages is in bad repair as two of the cells have holes in the floor where rats come through at night.

"County Home is well kept; no complaint as to food from other prisoners or indigent poor, and the crops were good. Some needed minor repairs were noted and attention of superintendent called to same and he promises to have same attended to at once.

"Castle Haynes camp, situated south of Prince George's creek, we examined and found to be in good condition, food ample and wholesome, and no complaints from prisoners, although we understand the worse prisoners are sent to this camp. On land adjoining the camp, which we understand belongs to the county, the road force is now engaged in getting out road material (sand rock) which appears to be good material for road building, and which can be gotten out at a minimum cost, as it is close to surface. We would suggest that telephone connection be made with this camp.

"Work House. This institution, which has only been turned over to county in last week or two, and is not quite finished, appears to us to be a model prison, not only from a sanitary point, but from the many conveniences it offers to the employes as well as the prisoners. It appears well conducted food ample and clean, and no complaint from prisoners. We consider this institution a credit to New Hanover county.

"All public roads were found in good condition with following exceptions: New road leading from Castle Haynes to Northeast bridge, which has been recently graded, is badly cut up from so much travel, but road force is now working on same and when completed, will add much to this section.

"Gordon road, connecting Castle Haynes road and Scott's Hill road, is being straightened and graded and when completed will add much to convenience of public. Middle Sound road in bad condition and attention of county commissioners called to same and force of men has been placed on this road to make the urgently needed repairs.

"On the Masonboro road near the nine-mile post where the old Federal Point road leads over to the church, the culvert pipe has become so that the water cannot pass through, and floods the road.

"We commend the aid rendered the grand jury by the police department and county officers.

"Respectfully submitted,
"R. L. HOLMES,

McALLISTER GETS PRESENT.

Members of Street Department Remember Him on Departure.

Mr. J. C. McAllister, whose connection with the Wilmington street department as assistant superintendent has been severed in order to accept a position as superintendent of the Fayetteville street department, was given a pleasant surprise yesterday, when the members in the employ of the department presented him with a valuable present in token of their love and friendship for him.

Mr. J. W. Smith made the presentation speech yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the city stables, where all members gathered to take part in the ceremonies. Mr. McAllister made an earnest talk expressing his warm friendship for all members of the department and felt many regrets at leaving them for his new work, and hoped that their friendship would always ring true.

Married by Justice Bornemann.

Mr. E. G. Oorchot, Jr., and Miss Minnie J. Rover, both Hollanders, of Castle Haynes, were married yesterday morning in the office of Justice Bornemann. The families of both the contracting parties were present to witness the ceremony.

WATERWAY WILL HELP STATE

Congressmen Moore and Small Will Speak on Subject Tuesday to Chamber of Commerce.

Congressman J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways' Association and Congressman John H. Small, of North Carolina, will be in Wilmington Tuesday and will address a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at 4 o'clock, discussing the proposed inland waterway along the Atlantic Coast.

Considerable work has already been done on the waterways project and the subject has been discussed in Wilmington. Messrs. Moore and Small are touring the South and are both intimate with the work and their talks regarding plans for a project that will, when completed, be of immense value to Wilmington and North Carolina, will likely be heard by a large audience of those, who are interested in community development, and ways of securing a means of conveyance that will enable Wilmington dealers to supply themselves with staple supplies, at much reduced transportation rates.

It is estimated that it will only be necessary to canal about 131 miles along the coast to secure 1,800 miles of waterway, which will connect and open up as on one line, 5,000 miles of branches and main lines combined. When completed, North Carolina ports will be on a line to all the large cities of the East and hundreds of smaller ones. Many of their supplies can be had over these routes and staple crops can be shipped extensively at low rates, proving a great advantage in an economical way to the entire State of North Carolina.

DR. SIDBURY LOCATES HERE.

Has Had a Number of Years of Experience in Northern Hospitals.

The many friends here of Dr. J. Buren Sidbury, who has for the past several years been connected with different hospitals in New York City, have learned with much pleasure that he has decided to locate in Wilmington for the practice of his profession. He is already in the city and will open up his offices within a short time. He is well equipped for the practice of medicine and is also a man of pleasing personality. The following from last week's Trinity Chronicle, a weekly paper published at Trinity College in Durham, will be of interest:

"Dr. J. Buren Sidbury, '08, has recently located in Wilmington, his home town, for the practice of his profession. After graduating with honors from Trinity, Dr. Sidbury went immediately to the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, from which he received in 1912 the degree of Doctor of Medicine. At the same time the degree of Master of Arts was conferred upon him for graduate work done in chemistry and other sciences. Following his graduation, he held for two years an appointment as interne at the Roosevelt Hospital. Dr. Sidbury, then was for one year resident physician at the New York Foundling Hospital. Later he was appointed attending physician at the Babies' Hospital Dispensary, a position which he held until last month."

EVERY TEACHER PRESENT AT INITIAL MEETING

Prof. Catlett President and Mrs. Hall Secretary of Association.

Without exception every rural teacher in New Hanover county attended the initial meeting yesterday morning of the County Teachers' Association, the most important business of which was to elect officers for the ensuing year. Prof. Washington Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, was elected president and Mrs. R. F. Hall, of the Delgado school, was elected secretary.

Professor Catlett presided at the meeting and made an address to the teachers on the methods of teaching spelling in the schools. Mrs. Hettie Fennell made an interesting short talk on the teachers' reading circle, but no definite action was taken on the matter.

Meetings will be held the last Saturday of each month, at which special papers will be prepared by certain teachers on special subjects pertaining to the school work. The meetings are planned for the two-fold purpose of creating a fellow feeling among those engaged in similar work in the county, and learning from each other better methods of teaching.

WILL TAKE UP SUNSET SCHOOL MATTER THIS WEEK

Board of Education Will Hold Meeting Monday or Tuesday.

The Board of Education will have a meeting Monday or Tuesday to determine what will be done about the Sunset Park school. The residents are practically unanimous in their demands for a school at Sunset park and the Fidelity Trust and Development Company has offered to furnish the building. The number of students is not sufficient to justify the Board of Education in establishing a school, it is stated, and the board could only apportion the residents their part of the school money.

If this was done the children at Sunset Park would have to attend the school and would not be permitted to come to the city schools for the reason that if a school is provided there the children would be expected to attend it. The Board of Education is inclined to accommodate the residents at the park as far as possible and are desirous of effecting the very best arrangements possible.

FIRST CARGO COTTON OF SEASON EXPORTED

British Steamer Sowwell Sails With 13,070 Bales.

Destination is Genoa, Italy—Three Other Vessels Now in Port for Staple for Foreign Shipment —Receipts Heavy.

The first shipment of cotton to a foreign country from the port of Wilmington, since the new season opened, was made yesterday. The steamer Sowwell, flying the British flag and with a gross tonnage of 2,430, sailed for Genoa, Italy, carrying a cargo of 13,070 bales valued approximately at $850,000. The cotton was shipped by the exporting firm of Alexander Sprunt & Son and was loaded at the wharves of the Champion Compress.

The steamer had been in port little more than a week arriving light from Messina, Italy, and was the first of a number of foreign steamers to arrive at this port this season. As soon as she cleared from her moorings at the Compress wharves, the British steamer Blair Hall, which had been anchored in the harbor for several days, took her place and began taking on a cargo also for a foreign port.

There are three other British steamers in port, all of them at present moored at the Champion Compress wharves, receiving cargoes of cotton to be taken abroad. The Cayo Gilano, 1,983 tons, which arrived light from Newport News, and the Helredale, 2,253 tons, also arriving light, from Key West, both have been taking on cargoes for several days and they are expected to sail within a short time. The Blair Hall, 1,587 tons, which succeeded the Sowwell at the wharf and began loading yesterday, will likely not clear for several days.

Cotton was quoted on the local market by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce yesterday at 11 cents. The receipts here continue to increase and yesterday there were 3,658 bales brought in.

The decidedly optimistic trend that the market has taken recently has proven a great impetus to business and the outlook is most encouraging to all.

The first cargo of cotton from Wilmington to a foreign port last year was late in October although prior to that time there had been several shipments by water to New York, from which point it was transhipped to Europe.

COMFORTS AT WRIGHTSVILLE

Water, Electric Lights, Etc., at Beach Until October 15.

The residents on the beach will be glad to know that the water service will be continued until the 15th of October at least. There is a possibility of its being continued even longer. The electric lighting service can be obtained at all times, so that one can live at the beach at this time of the year surrounded by the same comforts that are obtainable during the height of the season. This year a greater number of cottages are open at this time of the season than in any previous year. It is probably due to the extremely hot September weather that has prevailed.

NEW THEATRE OPENS MONDAY

The Royal Will Show Feature Pictures Exclusively—Building of Most Modern Type.

The Royal, Wilmington's newest amusement house, will open its doors for its first show tomorrow afternoon at 6:30 o'clock. There has been some delay encountered in getting some of the fixtures but everything is now ready for the opening, with the exception of installing the Seeburg Motion Picture orchestra organ, and arrangements have been made for other music until this can be placed.

The building is located on North Front street opposite the postoffice and is of the most modern design. There are 600 seats in the auditorium while the balcony will seat 300 people. The pictures will be shown on a modern mirror screen which was put in place yesterday. This is a solid piece of plate glass which has been frosted and will show the pictures up to the very best advantage. Two of the very latest motion picture machines have been installed with all the latest improvements. The operating department will be in charge of Mr. R. D. Marshall and he extends a cordial invitation to the public to call tomorrow afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock and inspect these machines.

The motion picture pipe organ is something of a novelty for this section. It will be operated by an expert musician, who will be able to give all the effects of a modern orchestra. The music will be made to accord with the pictures that are being shown, this being made possible by reason of the many effects that can be produced.

One of the features that will appeal to lovers of the picture screen will be the electric announcers on either side of the stage which will give the title of the pictures being shown and other information of interest. These announcers will be operated from the operator's room in the balcony.

The theatre will open each day at 11 o'clock and will remain open until 11 P. M. The shows will last for one and a half hours and it will always be possible for those wanting to see the pictures to know when the show begins as the pictures will be run strictly according to schedule. For instance the first show will begin at 11, the next at 12:30, the next at 2 and so on through the day.

The building is thoroughly ventilated and fresh air will be kept in constant circulation by noiseless electric fans. The interior has been painted a light green with panels in gold colors that makes the surroundings very attractive.

Messrs. Howard & Wells, owners of the Royal, announce that they have secured the special feature service of the World, Paramount, Metro and Fox film companies which will enable them to have a special feature picture every day in the week.

A feature that will appeal to patrons will be the automatic ticket vender which will enable them to secure tickets with the least possible delay.

There is a rest room for ladies on the left side of the entrance which will be kept open at all times for the accommodation of the public.

EXHIBITS FOR STATE FAIR

Only Short Time Remains for Getting Together Products—To Make Preparations for Show.

"The Exhibit that New Hanover will send to the State fair should leave Wilmington not later than October 14," said Mr. J. P. Herring, county farm demonstrator, yesterday to a Star man. "We are sure of having quite a creditable exhibit from the farmers and we are sure the 'Made in Wilmington' exhibit will also be a fine one. Mr. H. B. Branch, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, will be glad to confer with those interested in this part of the exhibit.

"We would like for the teachers to help us get up any of of those exhibits furnished by the children at the commencement week last spring. There were a number of good exhibits here at that time and we would be glad to get them. They will be returned in good shape to the schools after the State Fair.

"We want everyone to feel under obligations to help in this exhibit in every way possible. It must represent New Hanover and, if so, all must have something to represent their interests."

WESTERN DRAMA PLEASES.

Small Audience Witnesses "Winning of Barbara Worth" at Academy.

A good part of the small audiences was pleased with Mark E. Swan's play from Harold Bell Wright's story, "The Winning of Barbara Worth," which was presented at the Academy of Music yesterday afternoon and night. The play was well rendered by a suitable and strong company and carried with it the frontier spirit, but the features played up in the plot were of a depressing nature.

While nothing was lacking with the players, the heroine played up a slight show of fickleness and a good man had to meet his end by accident in order that the chosen hero might win his prize. Then, too, it showed up a depressing condition often experienced in financing operations in the wastes of the West.

However, the vigor of the players made it all interesting to witness. Miss Gertrude Barker, as Barbara Worth, was a typical girl of the adventurous West. Theodore Hardy, as Jefferson Worth, was a strong feature of the play. Owen Coll and Kenneth Grattan, as Willard Holmes and Abe Lee, both won the sympathy of the audience, while Texas Joe and Pat Mooney brought many a laugh. The occasional use of Mexican phrases made the whole play realistic and just according to life as it is now found in New Mexico.

The scenery was perfectly plain and characteristic of early adventures in the Western country ,where efficiency was found too necessary for any foolish expenditures. The desert scene was of a character to make an onlooker feel that he was right in the midst of a sand storm.

Girl Was to Come to Wilmington But Has Not Been Heard From Since.

Much uneasiness is being felt by the relatives of young Miss Agnes Callahan, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. John Callahan, of Cranberry, N. C., who left her home last Monday morning to come to Wilmington to visit her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Clemmons, who live at No. 411 Smith street. Nothing has been heard from her since and it is feared that she may have been lost.

She left her home in Mitchell county to come to Wilmington and it is supposed that she went via Johnson City, Tenn. It was not known in this city that she had disappeared until a telegram was received from her father, asking if she had arrived. This was the first time that Mr. and Mrs. Clemmons knew that she was expected to visit them. They immediately answered that they had heard nothing.

The relatives will greatly appreciate any information that will lead to knowledge of her whereabouts.

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 25.—The five Danville young men, who are charged with an assault upon Miss Minnie Lambeth, of near Brown Summit, by throwing a beer bottle from the automobile and striking her, came here today for a hearing before Justice D. H. Collins. They were represented by attorneys of the city and from Danville. It had been suggested that a requisition would be necessary to bring them, but when this was discussed the young men had their attorney inform local officers that this would be unnecessary.

Attorneys for defendants obtained a continuance of the case to next week. It is said a compromise has been effected with Miss Lambeth's father.

A., and her assistants are busy preparing for the opening of this institution for the fall and winter work, and this week will be observed as registration week for the educational and gymnasium classes. The fall activities will be formally inaugurated with an opening social on next Friday night to which the members and friends of the association will be invited.

Miss Foster, director of the gymnasium, who arrived several weeks ago, will be in her office each day this week with the exception of Wednesday from 9:30 A. M. to 1:30 P. M. and from 5:30 to 6:30 P. M. for the purpose of registering those desiring to take work in the gymnasium. Applicants should bring their membership cards and those not members can join at the association office. All applicants will be required to have certificates either from their family physician or from the consulting physicians of the association. Health certificates can be secured at the office. The consulting physicians are Drs. Wm. T. Ruark and E. R. Graham.

The gymnasium work will include corrective exercises for round and uneven shoulders and spinal curvature, military drills, Swedish and German gymnastics, therapeutics, folk dancing and all kinds of games, including basketball, volley ball, squash ball, tennis and indoor baseball. There will also be a class in aesthetic dancing. The exercises are designed to increase the heart and lung power, train the body through the nerves and muscles to obey the will, to afford recreation and to benefit poor posture, nervousness, insomnia, uneven hips, flat chests, weak ankles and poor blood circulation.

The gymnasium year begins October 4th and closes May 15th. The first term will end February 1st. The association is fortunate in securing the services of Miss Foster as director as she has had five years of experience and is a graduate of the Chicago School of Physical Expression and Training.

Work in the educational department begins at the same time as in the gymnasium and those desiring to register may do so at the office of the association. Information relative to securing free scholarships may be secured at the office. Any member may secure free instruction in the gymnasium by getting ten applications.

The entertainment on Friday will be on the order of a county fair. Each department will have a booth and as each will vie with the other, it is expected that these will be very attractive. The decorations will be quite elaborate. The arrangements are in charge of the educational, physical, social, religious and membership committees.

The vesper service for October will be held next Sunday afternoon and will be in charge of the Blue Ridge club, which is composed of those who attended the Blue Ridge conference during the summer.

PLANNING LARGER SERVICE

Young Men's Christian Association Opens for Fall and Winter Work on October 4th.

Plans are rapidly maturing for the opening of the fall work of the Young Men's Christian Association and those in charge of the work expect this winter to be the biggest yet in the number of those using the privileges and benefits received. This week the committees in charge of the different departments will meet to complete their programme and if the present plans are carried out every department, including the physical, social and educational, in both the Boys' and Men's divisions, will show splendid development.

Carrying out the main object of the Y. M. C. A. every department will work for definite results in the spiritual lives of the men and boys. Last year 400 members used the physical privileges and the goal this year is 600. Last year 22 socials were conducted, this year the committee hopes for 40 such gatherings. Last year 26 boys took the courses offered in the Educational department. This year with the addition of a course in language, the goal has been set at 70.

Some attractive advertising is being gotten out and also letters to the members calling attention to the fact that October 4th is the big day and that all classes will begin at that time.

The development of the new work under Mr. Hinnant for the boys of the entire city is taking shape rapidly and will shortly become a valuable asset not only to the Association but to the churches and in the homes of the boys of the city.

Mr. E. H. Sneed, for a number of years a well known furniture dealer of the city, has taken a position with the Sterchi-Bancroft Furniture Company. Mr. Sneed has a wide circle of friends here who are glad to see him connected with this large established business and will wish for him much success.

COTTON BEING RAPIDLY GATHERED IN ROBESON

Crop Reported Very Short; Price Passes 11 Cts. Mark

Agricultural Show in November—Mr. J. B. Bowen Resigns—Health Conditions Fine—David Fuller Goes to Harvard.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumebrton, N. C., Sept. 25.—The week ending today has been a busy one with the farmers in this section, the weather being good most of the time for gathering cotton. It is said that never before has cotton opened and been gathered so rapidly in this county as the present season, and in a short time most of the crop will have been gathered. A farmer here yesterday said that in some fields in the St. Pauls section it would not be long before the stalks could be cut down. It is now claimed that 50 per cent. of a crop is all that may be expected.

November 10, 11 and 12 have been named as the dates upon which the farm products, poultry and livestock exhibit will be held in Lumberton. A large and varied premium list will be offered, which should cause much interest to be taken, and it is hoped and expected that all Robeson will join heartily in the movement to show what is and can be grown here.

Cotton went beyond the 11-cent mark here yesterday. While no complaint is heard about low prices, some farmers are holding for higher prices. The writer was told this week of one farmer in the county who still holds 250 or 300 bales of last year's crop for more money.

The tobacco season is now closed here, and has been a big success. Next year, all things being favorable, will see Lumberton more than double its tobacco business. It has the right men at the head of it.

Mr. J. B. Bowen Resigns.

The resignation of Mr. J. B. Bowen as assistant county superintendent of schools is not only a source of regret to the friends of education throughout the county, but to the public at large. Eminently fitted by training and experience, Mr. Bowen has held this position since elected by the board of education and the county superintendent in 1911, discharging the duties of the office capably and efficiently and with a uniform courtesy that has won for him a high place in the popular estimation. His host of friends wish him every success in his new work with the law firm of McLean, Varser & McLean where he will be after October 4.

Summer is gone and cooler weather is here. General health conditions in Lumberton, so far as the writer knows, were never better than during the present year. There has been almost no fever, less by far than ever before. The authorities have tried to leave nothing undone that would improve health conditions and have been greatly aided by most of the citizens who joined in the effort to make Lumberton the healthiest town anywhere. But strange as it may seem, there have been a few among the "best" people who have paid no attention to the entreaties of the authorities to lend their assistance.

The sudden death of young Guy Blake, which occurred Thursday afternoon, as reported in The Star Friday morning, saddened many hearts in this section. By his quiet, unassuming disposition, he made many friends who deeply regret his passing. The funeral was conducted yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and the remains were laid to rest in East Lumberton cemetery. The many beautiful floral tributes attested the high esteem in which he was held.

Death of Little Child.

Daniel Webster, the two-year-old son of Mrs. D. W. Crump, of East Lumberton, died last night as the result of an attack of diphtheria and other complications. The diphtheria was thought a few days ago to be under control and hopes were entertained for the recovery of the child, but its condition grew worse again and it lingered until last night, when its sufferings were relieved by the Death Angel.

Mr. David Fuller, who graduated from Trinity College last session, successfully passed his examination, obtained his license to practice law and was sworn in, has gone to Harvard University, where he will spend a year to further prepare himself before entering upon the work of his profession.

Rev. J. S. Moody, of Fayetteville, will preach at Trinity Protestant Episcopal church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The Sunday school hour at Trinity has been changed from 3:30 p. m. to 9:30 a. m., thus making the hour for Sunday school the same for all the churches in town.

Next Tuesday is the day for the cheap excursion rates to Jacksonville and Tampa via the V. & C. S. and the A. C. L. The fare for the round trip from Lumberton will be $7.50 and $9.50 respectively.

The first fresh pork of the season was on sale here this morning, the price quoted being 25 cents.

Cotton Ablaze, Dumped in River.

Thursday afternoon, while Mr. Malcolm Odum, son of Mr. Ernest Odum, of Raft Swamp township, was on his way to town driving a two-horse wagon with three bales of cotton, as the result of smoking a pipe while riding along, a spark dropped on the cotton and soon the three bales were ablaze. Fortunately the fire occurred as the young man was approaching McNeill's bridge three miles from town and with the aid of a colored man the cotton was thrown into the river. Yesterday morning the fire was out, but the cotton will have to be repacked before marketing.

The Merkel Sister team, which played at the Pastime theatre first three nights of this week, left this morning for Charleston, S. C. These young ladies are accompanied in their travels by their mother and go to Charleston to meet Mrs. Merkel's son, whom she has not seen for 11 years, he being an officer on one of the United States battleships. He has not seen his sisters since they were little children.

Mrs. Lizzie Proctor and daughter, Mrs. R. R. Carlyle, left Thursday for San Antonio, Texas, where they will attend the marriage of a niece of Mrs. Proctor.

Mrs. W. P. McAllister, who spent the summer at Hendersonville, returned home last night restored to good health.

The family of Mr. C. M. Fuller returned this week from the mountains where they spent the summer.

Mrs. A. C. Tebeau, of Hendersonville, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Whaley. W. S. W.

THE

Topic for Sunday, September 26, 1915. SHIELDS AGAINST TEMPTATIONS. Eph., 6:10-18.

This passage contains very practical advice to the Christian. It is not a poetic or fanciful description, but plain instruction as to the kind of armor each must put on. The fight is a real one, and the issues of the battle are momentous. One may be sure he will win. He may be sure he will fail if he fights in his own strength.

All the pieces of this armor described herein are defensive, except one. The one aggressive, offensive weapon is "The sword of the spirit, which is the Word of God." All the other parts of the armor are used to protect vital points and shield the bearer from hurt.

The enemies we are to fight are not flesh and blood, but spiritual enemies, organized, trained and dangerous. After we have put on every piece of armor and taken the sword in hand, we need to remember the necessity and power of prayer. Down at the bottom of all our needs is the need for a revival of the forgotten art of prayer.

We may be sure of the fact that we will all be tempted, in various ways and repeatedly. If there is any defense against temptation, we ought to know it and use it. A shield can only protect those who hide behind it. One should have his loins girt about with truth; should put on a breast plate of righteousness; should have on the sandals of the Gospel of peace; above all, should have faith in the helmet of salvation.

God never meant His Christian soldiers to be free from temptation. It is the fighting and the conquering of the temptation that makes life worth the living. So the shields of God are given us that we may conquer greater temptations and surmount greater heights.

The greatest shield which God has given us is the knowledge of His love. The love that gave His begotten son, to suffer and die for our shortcomings.

Loyalty to Christ is the shield that turns many darts. When Christ was tempted on the mount, the devil brought to bear on him the greatest temptations that man could receive, such as the promise of honor, ease of life, but Christ withstood them, through loyalty to His Father. He had been sent on a mission, He was about to begin the greatest work ever entrusted to man. In fact, it required a God-man. We have no record of Christ's loyalty weakening or faltering. His shield of loyalty was impregnable against all the arts of the devil, and He dismissed the temptation with the words: "Get thee behind me, Satan."

Pride, while often a temptation and a sin, may become a safe shield. Many a person never submits to the first temptation for the reason that their pride prevents. Very often a person is too proud to be seen committing a deed which they knew to be wrong, and which they know will cause comment among their neighbors or receive their condemnation and disapproval.

Toil conquers all things. Character can only be sustained and strengthened by its own energetic action. The will must be trained to habits of decision; otherwise, it will neither be able to resist evil nor to follow good.

Home is one of the best shields of temptation, for it affords a protection during the tender years of life. It supplies experience, the cost of obtaining which has been paid by others. And we enter a world prepared to either succumb or resist temptation in accordance with the training and the lesson which we have received in the home circle.

Prayer is a shield which should be the first safeguard and to which the Christian should turn at the first intimation of danger, for it is on the knees that the victories have been won and the greatest temptations conquered.

The Bible is a very important protector, for it gives the information and the plans and strategems of the arch enemy. We read his secrets and his method of warfare in the open book.

Association with lofty minds of literature often puts the individual beyond the range of temptation. It puts them on a higher plane to which temptation can not come.

Church attendance, with its association and friendship offers a protection and an assistance the full value of which is rarely appreciated.

Christ is the warrior who has prevailed for us, and who is ready now to prevail in and through us. (Heb. 2:18; 4:15).

"To whom, O Savior, shall we go?
The Tempter's power is great:
E'en in our hearts is Evil bound
And lurking stealthily around.
Still for our souls doth wait.
Thou tempted One, whose suffering heart
In all our sorrow bore a part,
Whose life blood only could atone;
Too weak are we to stand alone;
And nothing but the shield of light
Can guard us in the dreaded fight."

CHARTER CONCERNS RAILROAD OF J. T. DEAL INTO DUPLIN.

May Extend His Railroad from Pink Hill to Kinston.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., Sept. 25.—The granting of a charter yesterday to the Kinston Belt Line Company, authorized to build and operate steam and electric rail lines, created considerable interest locally at first. It is stated, however, that the organization of the company concerns the new J. T. Deal railroad into Duplin county from Pink Hill. Mr. Deal is said to be the principal stockholder in the Belt Line Company. It is thought that he contemplates bringing the line on to Kinston from Pink Hill, primarily as a log carrier for a big lumber plant here of which he is the head. Passenger and freight service would be conducted, as at present, over the road from Duplin county to a connection with the Kinston-Carolina at Pink Hill. Mr. Deal was early in the year granted a franchise to use certain streets in the city. Scores of members of the Kinston chamber of commerce went to Beulaville this morning to celebrate at a dinner to which practically every merchant and planter in the section had been invited, the opening of the Deal road recently to that point.

UNION ARMY VETERANS GATHER IN WASHINGTON

Thousands Will Retrace Steps of Fifty Years Ago.

President Wilson Will Stand to Greet Remnant of Armies of Grant and Sherman Where President Johnson Stood.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Thousands of veterans of the Union army are here on the eve of the 49th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Fifty years after the last shot was fired survivors of the Union host which marched in review from the Capitol to the White House, are to retrace their steps next Wednesday.

In the court of honor where President Johnson stood September 29, 1865, President Wilson will stand to greet the remnant of the victorious armies of Grant and Sherman. Elaborate plans have been made to assure the success of the encampment and the city is in holiday array. Pennsylvania avenue, through which the military pageant will pass, is walled with the national colors, and flags flutter from windows and housetops.

By tomorrow it is expected 30,000 veterans, many of them survivors of the 160,000 who participated in the grand review of 1865, will have reached the city. Preparations for entertaining 100,000 visitors have been made. On the opening day of the encampment various informal receptions will be held and much of the time given over to registration under a system whereby veterans can easily find old comrades.

President Wilson will attend the first formal reception in a huge auditorium adapted for the purpose in the old Census building near the Capitol, which also will contain headquarters of the various departments and army court of the Grand Army and allied organizations during the encampment. The following day the military review will be held.

General Nelson A. Miles, who will act as marshal of the review, taking the place General Sherman occupied in 1865, and David J. Palmer, commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., already have arrived. Among others who are here or expected by tomorrow are the following noted veterans:

General James H. Wilson, of Wilmington, Del., and General Granville M. Dodge, of Council Bluffs, Ia., the only two living corps commanders of the Union army; division commanders Gen. Adelbert Ames, of Mississippi; Gen. D. McM. Gregg, of Pennsylvania; Gen. Lewis A. Grant, Minnesota; Gen. J. Warren Keifer, of Ohio, and Brig. Gen. John T. Wilder, of Knoxville, Tenn. Nearly all the veterans who marched with Sherman and Grant who are enrolled for the line of march Wednesday have passed 70 years of age and it is probable that another commemoration of the event never will be held.

The line of march for the parade will be from Peace Monument at the east entrance of the Capitol grounds, up Pennsylvania avenue and through a Court of Honor erected in front of the White House. With the President when he reviews the procession will be members of the cabinet, other distinguished officers of the United States, Justices of the Supreme Court and members of Congress. Besides the veterans in line there will be Sons of Veterans, various citizen military organizations, troops of the regular army, marine corps and sailors from the fleet.

The parade, it is estimated, will require about three hours in passing. General Miles, as honorary grand marshal of the parade, will have army and navy officers as his aides. Col. Holsey, chief of staff to the commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., will be the active marshal. As special guard to commander-in-chief Palmer will be the U. S. Grant post of Brooklyn, N. Y. Veterans will march in their respective Grand Army departments, the line being headed by the department of Illinois, which was the first to be organized after the war.

On Thursday and Friday business meetings of the encampment, with sessions of allied organizations will be held. After the election of grand officers Friday the veterans will proceed to Arlington National cemetery where President Wilson will lay the cornerstone of a new National amphitheatre. Another feature will be a public reception in the Capitol Thursday evening under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps. This organization, co-operating with the women of the G. A. R. will plant two trees, one on each side of the boulevard leading to the Lincoln Memorial in Potomac Park. The first spadefull of earth in planting the first tree will be turned by Commander-in-Chief David J. Palmer, while Mrs. Sarah E. Fulton, president of the Women's Relief Corps, will have that honor in planting the second tree.

One of the events for tomorrow will be the wig-wagging of a message of greeting and good will to visiting veterans from President Wilson. The message will be signalled by men familiar with the old Myer code which was sent from station to station about Washington by survivors of the signal corps of 50 years ago.

Signalling features of the encampment will continue throughout the week under charge of Lieut. George Carr Round, president of the United States Veterans' Signal Corps Association. The main station of the veteran signal corps will be on the heights of Georgetown in the extreme western section of Washington and upon the spot where the government had its Signal Instruction Camps during the war. Mt. Tabor Methodist church which stands there will be the headquarters. From that point welcomes will be wig-wagged and messages of peace and good will to the world are to be sent. Other stations are established at Fort Stevens, Fort De Russy, the National Soldiers' Home, Fort Richardson and the dome of the Capitol.

Secretary Garrison and Secretary Daniels have co-operated with the committees to entertain the veterans. Regular troops from Fort Myer are to give daily drill exhibitions on the Washington monument grounds while submarines, torpedo boats and other small naval craft unknown to civil war times are to be on exhibition in Washington harbor in the Potomac.

Mingling in the throngs of wearers of the Blue who have reached here are wearers of the Confederate Gray who were especially invited to attend the encampment. The invitations were extended as a result of the union of the Blue and the Gray at Gettysburg two years ago.

THE WEEK IN WILMINGTON THEATRES

The firm of Potash and Perlmutter, makers of cloaks, suits and laughs, will open shop at the Academy on Wednesday, October 6, when A. H. Woods presents, direct from its second year inNew York city, the most famous play of the century. "Potash and Perlmutter" was acclaimed with joy by the New York critics and the amusement public when Mr. Woods first produced it at the George M. Cohan theatre in that city and for two seasons it crowded that theatre to the doors. Now it comes to us with a company of splendid artists, all of whom have won honors on Broadway in the famous roles.

Although the plot of "Potash and Perlmutter" is woven about the joys and sorrows, the trials and the triumphs of those most lovable of characters 'Abe' Potash and 'Mawruss' Perlmutter who first made their bow to the public in the columns of the Saturday Evening Post, these laughable heroes of the cloak trade do not monopolize the story. There is plenty of romance in 'Potash and Perlmutter' as there is bound to be wherever lovely women and appreciative men meet as they do in the delightful comedy.

Al G. Field's Greater Minstrels.

One of the most interesting and romantic cities of all America is New Orleans which Al G. Fields has chosen this year to make the opening scene of his Greater Minstrels to be seen at the Academy tomorrow giving a matinee and night performance.

The city was laid out in 1718 by the French and named in honor of the Duke of Orleans, then Regent of France. In 1722 New Orleans became the capital of the French territory around, and was at that time a miserable place in a marsh, with a few small houses and apparently no future. In 1762 France ceded all of Louisiana to Spain, but the people of New Orleans, with that independence characteristic of all American colonists, irrespective of nationality, expelled the Spanish governor who came to rule over them.

In 1800 Louisiana and New Orleans, its chief city, came back to France and in 1803 the United States purchased the tract from France. It was predicted New Orleans would grow to be the largest city in this country. While it did not come up to expectations, it did grow steadily. It has figured picturesquely time and again in American history, and is one of the cities where one can go and believe one's self outside America.

It is shown in the opening of the Field Minstrels in the hey-day of its commercial greatness, when the Mississippi was the greatest road of freight traffic in the country, and when the whole business of commerce along the "Father of Waters" was one which seems to Americans like a fascinating page of some romance. The levee from which stevedores are seen carrying freight on the steamer Robert E. Lee was the scene of many exciting events, including a good share of the Civil war's vicissitudes, while the Robert E. Lee herself was one of the most famous boats, a boat to be rated with the Claremont of Stevenson, the Half-moon of Hudson and the Lusitania and Titanic of more recent fame. In the cabin of this floating palace that classic of minstrelsy—the first part—is presented. A mimic race between the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez is one of the scenic surprises. The levee scene, the river by night, with Algiers in the distance, forms a beautiful stage picture.

The matinee prices are 50 and 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children to any seat. Night prices range from 50 cents to $1. Tickets are selling at Plummer's.

The Royal Monday Night.

As is usual with such undertakings, there are several unfinished parts at the new Royal, "Wilmington's Modern Movie," but everything will be in readiness for the formal opening which will take place tomorrow afternoon at 6:30. This will give only three shows for the opening night, at 6:30, 8 and 9:30. The wonderful Seeburg Orchestra has not arrived, as the factory is rushed with orders, and it was built to order. However, good music will be furnished for the first day or two, until it arrives and is installed.

For the opening bill there has indeed a great attraction been booked. Blanche Sweet, the photo-drama's leading youthful star, presents a five-act play of youth and youth's temptations, "The Secret Orchard," based upon the drama by Channing Pollock and founded on the novel by Agnes and Edgerton Castle. It is the enthralling story of a girl who wins a long struggle against a pre-natal taint of character, a weakness intensified by contrast with natural loveliness and beautiful personality. It is a drama with a universal appeal, with scenes of Paris as it really is, and pictured with all the exquisite art of the Lasky studios.

There is a tremendously gripping lesson in the play, but it grows out of facts naturally and logically, and there is not a trace of pictorial sermonizing. The interest of the spectator is held taut from the first scene to the very last, with its strong theme, tense and pathetic situations, excellent acting and beautiful photography. The characterizations are exceptionally fine.

The public, especially the ladies, are cordially invited to inspect the well equipped operating room tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 5. Mr. R. D. Marshall, chief operator, will be present, and explain just how the pictures are projected on the wonderful Powers machines.

"The Shepherd of the Hills."

The Victoria is fast becoming the popular amusement house of the city. The new management and newer still policy have certainly become big favorites with the Wilmington theater goer and every patron who has been won under the new managerial banner is justly deserved and their continued patronage solicited.

Starting off its third big week as a permanent stock house, the offering will be one of the greatest yet made, it being a dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's greatest book, "The Shepherd of the Hills." In its book form "The Shepherd of the Hills" has sold well up into the million copies, and as a play the work has met with even greater success.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. It stands out as a play of wholesome and healthful influence, although the rough but typical people of the hills make it true to life.

The shepherd of the story is a cultural but rough stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities of which he has been accustomed. There is a flock needing a shepherd, and he thankfully accepts the lowly occupation of a sheep tender, but soon becomes the shepherd of a human flock, the big hearted mountaineers, their families and all who need a friend and adviser seek him.

Among the shepherd's most devoted followers are Old Matt and Young Matt, the giants of the hills; Sammy Lane, glorious in the beauty of young womanhood, and Poor Pete, a deranged lad who understands the voices of nature and sees what others can not see, but at last the solution is brought about by Pete and the shepherd, and it is the latter who is most deeply affected and concerned.

A sweet romance is woven into the humor, pathos and tragedy of "The Shepherd of the Hills," for the play throughout is one of human interest with a conclusion that is thoroughly satisfactory to the auditors.

Master Germond, a young actor who is barely in his teens, will be seen as "Pete," the lad of the hills. Master has appeared in the leading child roles of such great successes as "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "The Squaw Man" and is as much at home back of the foot lights as most any other youngster is at home playing with the toys. Be sure and bring the children to see "The Shepherd of the Hills." The boys and girls will fall right in love with Master Germond, for he is original and his work stands out for its finished manner.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" will be the attraction for Monday and Tuesday nights and Wednesday matinee and night. Seat sale opens at 1 o'clock each day at Victoria theater.

Billie Ritchie at the Bijou.

Funnier than all the minstrel shows combined, inimitable Billie Ritchie holds the center of the stage at the Bijou tomorrow, and presents his very greatest two-reel L-Ko scream, "Vendetta in a Hospital." Billie is ably assisted in this great riot of ribaldry by Henry Bergman, Hank Mann, Gene Rogers and pretty Louise Orth. Many say that Hank Mann is even funnier than Billie, but in this picture will see them both at the very height of their fun-making antics, in two full reels of a continuous melange of bomb-throwing and mirth-making mix-ups.

The "pathetic" story opens with Billie stewed to the gills. He would have denied the accusation if it were put to him point-blank, but nevertheless he was "stewed" proper. He lamped the beautiful Senorita, and about the same time Fat La Jolla got an eye on her. Of course they had it thick and furious over the pretty Senorita Paprika, assisted by the third party in the admiring group, Mr. Jowlfish, who, by the way, is none other than funny Hank Mann. You'll simply laugh till you fall on the floor before the first scene is off the screen, and you won't get a chance to let up until the censorship tag is flashed after a half hour.

Ben Wilson and Dorothy Phillips present a great single reel comedy feature, "Hush! Don't Wake the Baby," that is chock full of great comedy situations from start to finish, and there's great human interest drama in one act, "The Finest Gold," featuring Murdock MacQuarrie.

"The Red Rose."

After a record of a year's run at the Globe theatre, New York, and long engagements in Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago, "The Red Rose," John C. Fisher's musical comedy success, will be seen at the Academy on Saturday, October 2, with the original cast and large singing and dancing chorus that made this musical comedy a Broadway success.

The fact that Robert Hood Bowers who wrote the score of "Peggy From Paris" and "The Rose Maid," is the composer of the music of "The Red Rose," will give some idea of the brilliancy of the numbers. The past two seasons failed to produce a song which met with more favor than did "Bohemia," which may be regarded as the feature number of "The Red Rose." The piece will be given here in its entirety with the largest musical cast ever seen on the local stage.

Great Pictures at Grand.

Tomorrow the Grand will start the week off with a great "Broadway Star Feature," in three reels, "The City Tigress," fearless woman gang-leader caught at last. Absolutely without fear, and with nerves of steel, Nadine, known as "The Tigress", proves a worthy successor to her husband as leader of a band of expert crooks. Nadine herself is caught in the net. Imperious to the last, she confesses all, then kisses her adopted boy farewell and dies by her own hand. Julia Swayne Gordon, in the title role, is a sort of super-woman in the perpetration of evil. Then, too, she has a few good qualities, but they are pretty well smothered by the more aggressive side of her forceful nature. Leo Delaney makes a properly astute detective and characters are adequately portrayed in a picture produced with the care customary in Vitagraph offerings. The comedy portion of the Monday's program will be offered by the Mina Company in one reel, "Bill's Nurse."

Tuesday: Harold Lockwood, the cleanly built, handsome young man who has made himself, under the Mutual banner, one of the most popular actors in motion pictures, has the leading role, the Haphazard, in four-part Mutual masterpiece, "The Secretary of Frivolous Affairs." This exciting photoplay, which is full of exhilarating out-door scenes, is adapted from the novel of the same name by Mary Futrelle. Mr. Lockwood is assisted by the pretty little blond beauty, Miss May Allison, who plays the role of Loulie, the secretary. Remember this wonderful feature will be shown Tuesday and the admission will be only five cents.

Wednesday: The noted Broadway star, Hal Forde, will be presented in a powerful four-reel "Broadway Favorites" production, entitled "The Vanderhoff Affair," supported by Kalem's most beautiful actress, Miss Marguerite Control. This powerful four-act story is now running in the September number of "The American Woman." "The Vanderhoff Affair" is said to be one of the most remarkable dramas ever issued by the Kalem. The story tells of a diabolical plot concocted by Roscoe Vanderhoff and his Mexican servant, Jose, by which Helen, the former's niece, is to be robbed of her fortune. They become aware of the plot and the manner in which they fight their enemies is intensely exciting.

So don't miss a day at the Grand because every day is feature day and the admission is five cents.

HEAVEN FOR HORSES

What They Might Choose if They Had a Chance

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside appear the following statements of the kind of heaven horses would choose:

"In horse heaven the load in hot weather is made light.

"The driving is slow.

"The horse is watered very frequently if he is kept moving, but not just before he is to be allowed to stand.

"After he has had his evening's hay he is watered. How would you like trying to go to sleep after eating dry crackers without a sup of water.

"His feet are bathed, but not his legs.

"If it is very hot he is sponged all over, with water in which has been put a little vinegar; but the hose is never turned on him.

"He is never made to wear one of those horrid bell-shaped horse hats.

"If his stall is so hot that he sweats at night, he is tied outside, well bedded down. This gives him a chance to regain strength for the next day's work.

"Such a horse heaven may be established on almost any farm."

PROPOSED OCEAN MAIL LINE TO PORTS OF SOUTH AMERICA

Col. S. A. Jones Discusses the Feasibility of Establishing the Route Leading Out from Wilmington and Southport. Writes on Other Matters of National Interest.

(COL. S. A. JONES.)

May I have space to deal with some subjects of interest to our State and this Southland, speaking from my position as Commissioner for this State, Tennessee and Florida, to secure better transportation facilities to develop South American trade?

One of the most important sessions of Congress, since the close of the war between the States, is soon to convene. A few very much misunderstood and abused Democrats co-operated with the Republicans in 1914, and held the ship of state off the breakers then ahead of President Wilson, by defeating the ship purchase bill, which has made it possible for him to keep this country on neutral grounds, and out of a bloody war, and free from being charged with national selfishness in coveting commerce, and left his hands free for the protection of human life along with the lives of Americans throughout the world while traveling on ships engaged in peaceful commerce, whether the ships are owned by the nations at war with each other or owned by nations at peace with the world.

Had Congress passed the ship purchase bill to compete for a world commerce, these ships would have been called on to transport munitions of war to both sides in this European struggle for territorial and commercial supremacy.

Foolish indeed would have been England or Germany not to blockade them out from each other's ports whenever found laden with the munitions of war, or the necessities of life, which, in war times, are as much a war supply as guns, cannon, powder, shell and shot.

Long since, if that bill had become law, the greed of the manufacturers of war supplies would have caused both England and Germany to have been blowing up with mines and torpedoes American government owned ships, if they had not stayed out of the war zone, when loaded with munitions of war for either side.

As it is, American, private and corporate owned ships are running on thin ice when carrying even the necessities of life, much less the munitions of war, across the ocean war zone.

Those who read that data bearing on the nation's safety are finding out how rapidly the feelings of the people of this nation are crystallizing against allowing England to take aboard her ships, eve one American, to hold him out as protection for her commerce against the German torpedo.

She is doing this because the United States, under international law has demanded that Germany torpedo no boat that is not armed, and is carrying peaceful commerce, peaceful citizens, without first giving it warning and time to prepare safety for the passengers.

England, if she were engaged in such war methods as Germany is, would no doubt receive a like demand from the United States.

No Christian people believe in the character of the submarine warfare in which Germany is engaged.

But no Christian people believe in any kind of a war for the murder of each other.

There is no philosophy yet given to the world that lays down rules that nations at war with each other can to the letter observe, and protect themselves against each other, and at the same time protect venturesome people that risk their lives between armies engaged in battle.

Common sense should reveal the fact, no matter what law may be in existence, that every time a ship at war with an enemy undertakes to give that enemy's ship notice, that in just so many minutes it is going to sink that ship, and if it wishes to save its passengers it must get them off, whether that ship be German or English, whether it is armed or unarmed, if its officers believe there is a possibility of avoiding the destruction of their ship by attacking the ship that has given the warning, it is going to do it by any method possible at its command to protect the ship and cargo, even at the risk of the lives of those aboard.

Let us hope that President Wilson is reaching the conclusion that venturesome Americans that want to risk their lives between the firing lines because of a commerce law of two armies engaged in deadly conflict, will have to begin to do it at their own risk, without expecting protection, or involving this nation in a bloody war because of injuries they might receive, or lives they might lose willfully traveling on ships belonging to countries engaged in war with each other.

Had the ship purchase bill become law, long since this country would have been precipitated into this bloody war. When the same and far better results would have been obtained by utilizing the money that was to purchase those ships for the establishment of mail lines, which is the legitimate business of this government, and not in conflict with the constitution, or in competition with the capital of private or corporate citizenship.

Year by year, for the past number of years, State after State, Democratic and Republican, have asked Congress to co-operate with North Carolina to establish ocean mail lines from the east coast of this State to the east coast of South America (from which goes 90 per cent. of South America's business).

They have asked that the North Carolina ports of Wilmington and Southport be opened, not by ships bought by the government, but by private and corporate owned ships under bids giving sound bonded schedule mail contracts for the establishment of the South American mail lines.

Every schoolboy knows that ships carrying the United States mail, under the stars and stripes at its masthead, under a legitimate contract, is entitled to protection to the uttermost ability of every American citizen, so long as it violates no international ocean commerce law.

This government is parental in the sense that it is upbuilding moral civilization and a self-sustaining industrial citizenship.

No provision in the constitution provides for this government to engage in any kind of commerce other than supplying its own army, and prohibits the government engaging in industrial competition with the citizens and children of its own creation (for it must tax them to do this.)

It provides that these children deal honest and fair with each other, and provides drastic punishment if they fail to do so.

The principles of Jeffersonian democracy provides, when the government is to furnish the machinery to perform a public peaceable service, or have one performed, that calls for money that must be raised by taxing the people. This service must be subject to competitive bids from every citizen that wants to bid, and is competent to perform.

Any step beyond this is trespassing on the constitution, and overstepping the very foundation on which the principles of a democratic government rests.

The ship purchase bill was the greatest stretch to which the constitution of the nation and democracy has ever been subjected.

It is known, as the writer said it would be, that the money provided for in the bill could accomplish but little, and it would not now pay for half the ships the Germans have torpedoed in less than one year.

But that amount of money would have put in commission for 10 years, on mail contracts, based on 6 per cent. of the actual value of the ships, to carry mail on schedule time to South American ports, a hundred million dollars' worth of ships in commission to South American and other ports, to begin to turn to this country a commerce she has never had, and has never taken steps requisite to secure, a commerce equal to her entire European trade a decade ago. But for this war, she would never have gotten in position to compete for it as long as weak-kneed Democrats fill seats in Congress, and she will not now get it, except those weak-kneed Democrats vote for independent competing mail lines over the shortest possible route to carry mails to the east coast of South America from the North Carolina ports of Wilmington and Southport.

The day is long past if this Southland ever gets back her legitimate ocean commerce she enjoyed before the war between the States, and her ports recognized by the world, while weak-kneed Democrats with the subsidy colic oppose foreign bonded mail contracts, and try to keep them classed as subsidies when they are to secure commerce already in existence.

As a Democrat, and one that has spoken to the Democratic and Republican legislatures in nearly every State west of Pennsylvania and east of the Rocky Mountains, from Minnesota to Florida, in the interest of ship lines to carry mail from North Carolina ports to the east coast of South America, and from Florida ports to the west coast of South America, and won their support without the loss of one, I know whereof I speak when I say that 75 per cent. of the American people who are paying 75 per cent. of the total cost of the support of this government, when they understand it, will prefer to vote 6 per cent. of the equivalent of the amount provided in the ship purchase bill for mail lines to compete to perform the service to win South American and foreign commerce rather than purchase the ships.

A subsidy is a Republican doctrine—the same as protection or a tariff that yields no income to the government—a principle of taxing the people to build up private and corporate industries that are seeking to come into existence, and must continue to have it after they come into existence.

This principle has no earthly similarity to a mail line being established to compete for commerce already existing and compete with other nations who built that commerce up under direct ocean mail lines.

A bill was laid with the indorsement of State Legislatures of States carrying over 30,000,000 population, in Senator Simmons' hands, May 5, 1914, with an address to the Senate's Committee on Commerce, covering the minutest detail, the need and the value of other mail lines, asking Congress to establish this ocean mail line between Wilmington and Southport, N. C., and the ports of the east coast of South America.

Not only these States, but States carrying over 45,000,000 more population stand ready to indorse that bill when they are asked to do so by the North Carolina delegation in Congress.

Senator Simmons thought it not best under the long struggle on the currency and regional bank bill, and the ship purchase bill, with a long drawn out session of Congress, to bring this bill forward for consideration.

The people of this State, and those of other States, for which I am commissioner, and the States that have indorsed this bill, and those that have manifested their willingness to indorse this bill, are going to want to know what the North Carolina delegation in Congress is going to do about it.

Are they going to leave this bill thusly indorsed to open North Carolina's ports to the world, in the pigeon-hole, and again vote for the government to buy ships under that same bill, if it had passed, that would have had the mothers, the wives, the daughters and the sisters of this United States behind black crepe ribboned doors today, weeping for their slain loved-ones?

That old war-horse of Democracy, called "Marse Henry Watterson," Editor of the Courier Journal, has well said: "Nobody can beat Mr. Wilson for President but Mr. Wilson."

If the Democratic party undertakes another ship purchase bill under the provision of the old one, Mr. Wilson cannot save the party even by vetoing the bill.

It can truly be said, nobody can beat the North Carolina ports of Wilmington and Southport and keep them closed, but the North Carolina delegation in Congress.

How long are they going to keep the South's and the Nation's best port (to handle South American business) closed?

England, from her birth, has looked ahead. This is why she has been able to establish and maintain the British Empire. She is looking ahead now; she is building a battleship a month, not to engage in commerce, but to protect commerce.

I agree with Honorable Claude Kitchen, the Democratic floor leader of the next Congress, that what the United States needs are submarines and torpedoes to protect her coast, and plenty to protect her ship lines of commerce to South America. It will be worth more than a billion dollars expended in battleships.

This European war is being fought for control of territory and commerce, and they now enjoy four billion dollars the decade of South American commerce—a country for which we stand responsible.

England is corralling Germany's, Austria's and even her own Allies' South American commerce, and holding her own, and building battleships to protect what she is gaining, while the United States is talking about purchasing ships, and are holding South American.

HOW TO GROW YOUNG AT 50.

Story of a Man Who Was Old at 46 and is Young Again.

In the October American Magazine a contributor tells exactly how he took hold of his own case and made himself well and strong again. He was old at 46, with death just around the corner. At 50 he is ten years younger, well and strong and growing more youthful, just through obeying a few simple rules. In the following extract taken from the article this man relates, as follows, a part of the conversation he had with his doctor which resulted so beneficially:

"To my surprise, he informed me that I was much too heavy. 'Every year you keep on that extra weight,' he said, 'is a year off your life. I want you to take off 16 pounds.'

"'I always thought,' I came back at him, 'that I was about right for my height. I'm pretty tall, you know'.

"'Six feet?' he asked. I nodded.

"From somewhere in his desk he produced a table. 'I have here,' he explained, 'the average height and weight of 74,000 men accepted as good risks by the life insurance companies. According to it, I find that you are 16 pounds above the average for men of your age and height. Each one of those pounds gives your heart extra work. Still, you must take them off by degrees, for your organs need time to adjust themselves to the reduction.'

"'How am I to take them off?' I asked.

"'By reducing your food and increasing your exercise,' he told me. But to begin with he prescribed a mixture of Rochelle and Epson salts.

"'And I want you to walk,' he said. 'I want you to walk an hour at least every day at a smart pace. Golf if you like, but brisk walking along country roads will do you quite as much good.'

"'How about motoring?'

"'Sell your motor car,' he advised, 'unless you can forget you have it. How far is your place from the station?'

"'Two miles.'

"'Walk it.'

"'But I'm not fond of walking,' I objected.

"He frowned. 'You're less fond of dying, aren't you?' he chided. 'To give interest to your walks, make a practice of breathing deeply. Inhale for five steps, exhale for five steps. Do it rythmically, and keep at it. See how your chest will expand. Get a tape measure and keep a record of your increasing chest measurement. Do the same with your legs. Make a sort of game of it.'

"And I was to drink water as I had never thought of drinking water before. Every morning, at rising, I was directed to drink four glasses—good-sized glasses. 'A sort of internal bath, you know,' he explained. 'Make yourself clean inside as well as out.'

"'Cold external baths, as usual, I suppose?' I questioned.

"'No,' he answered, 'they're too much of a shock. Hot baths are better. They are good for your nerves and they stimulate the circulation. But don't go to sleep in the tub. Make them as short as you've made your cold baths. And before you bathe give yourself a thorough rub-down'."

Dumba's Messenger Back.

James F. J. Archibald.

This photograph shows James F. J. Archibald stepping from the Rotterdam, the Dutch liner, which brought him back on orders of United States Minister Van Dyck from his journey toward Vienna with messages from Constantin T. Dumba, the Austrian Ambassador. Archibald had the message to Premier Burian in which the proposal was made to tie up American ammunition plants. It was taken up in Great Britain and resulted in the request of President Wilson to the Austrian government to recall Dumba.

MISSIONARIES IN JAPAN ARE NOT PESSIMISTIC

But Disturbed That Apprehension Exists in America.

Apprehension Outgrowth of New School Regulations in Korea, of Which Misleading Private Reports Reached America.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)

Karuizwa, Japan, Aug. 19.—American missionaries here are somewhat disturbed over reports from the United States that apprehension exists there as to the future of Christianity in Japan. This apprehension is said to be the outgrowth of the new school regulations in Korea about which, the missionaries think, some misleading private reports have been sent to the United States.

The situation led the mission of the Methodist Episcopal church to hold a special meeting here under the chairmanship of Bishop Merriam C. Harris. At this meeting it was voted to draw up and send to the home church a detailed report of the exact conditions. A copy of the report, which was written by Dean Arthur D. Berry of the theological department of the Aoyama School at Tokio, has been handed to the correspondent of the Associated Press. It is most optimistic in tone and contends that contrary to any idea of restricting the teaching of Christianity, the Japanese government contemplates the extension of privileges already granted. Among other things, the statement emphasizes the progress made on a project to found a Christian university at Tokio—a project that is engaging the attention of all leading American and Japanese Christians.

As indicating erroneous opinion in some quarters of the United States, the report cites an affirmation in a church paper that "the open door" for Protestant missionary endeavor in Japan is fast closing."

In the first place, the report points out that the new regulations affect the schools in Korea only and not those of Japan proper. The essence of the regulations is that the private schools, including the mission schools are required to conform in grade and curriculum to those of the government schools. The effect of this will be the same as the effect of old time similar regulation—that is, it will lift the mission schools to a higher level and compel them to stay there, says Dr. Berry.

The prohibition of all religious instruction and worship in the schools seems serious, but the report emphasizes that the rules apply equally to all private schools. They are not directed solely at the Christian schools. Furthermore, Shintoism (ancestor worship) is not to be substituted for Christianity in the schools. The regulations do not apply to colleges or theological schools, and religious worship and instruction may be carried on outside regular school hours.

The committee thinks that at the end of the two years allowed for compliance with the new order of things, the schools in Korea may come under the department of education at Tokio and there obtain the same freedom and privileges enjoyed by the private schools in Japan proper. It recommends that the Korean schools comply "with all the other regulations and then wait in patience and pray that the evil day or prohibition of religious instruction may not come."

The report emphasizes that there is perfect religious freedom in Christian education work in Japan proper. This is acquired by accepting a special governmental classification which while signifying loss of certain school rights entails the loss of nothing that is fundamental. But even the difference in classification, it is declared, has come to be almost entirely nominal.

"Our big prosperous Christian schools," writes Dean Berry, "which are crowded with students and in which there is required chapel worship and in which the Bible is a text book and which are openly and aggressively Christian in atmosphere and activity—these are the most conclusive proof of the fact that there is religious freedom in educational work in Japan. And this perfect religious freedom is not threatened from any quarter whatever. The attitude of the government of Japan toward religion should be judged by the way it treats Christian work in Japan itself and not by the exceptional attitude taken under exceptional circumstances by the Governor General in Korea.

"More than that," the report continues, "the department of education and a commission of parliament are considering new regulations which will vitally effect the whole school system of the empire. The whole tendency of the new movement under consideration is in the direction of greater freedom and opportunity for private schools—which of course include mission schools. The power to grant degrees, for instance, has always been kept in the hands of the imperial universities. But the new regulations proposed to extend this power to private schools of similar grade.

"We are now perfecting plans for a union Christian University in Japan and new and revolutionary regulations are being considered by the government which would give to such a university a standing and privileges which we did not even dare hope to have. The mission board in America can push forward their plans for Christian educational work in Japan with the assurance that no restrictions will even be placed in the way of such Christian work by the Japanese government."

In conclusion the report says:

"The responsibility of any failure in our Christian work in Japan should not be laid at the door of the Japanese Government. The home church should join with us in a profund sense of obligation to the Japanese Government for the thousand ways in which it has willingly or unwillingly created such an opportunity for untrammelled Christian work."

"The Store That's Always Busy"

COMING YEAR SHOULD BE BANNER ONE IN JAMAICA.

Agricultural Conditions Generally Better Than in Eight Years.

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 16.—Notwithstanding damage done to the banana crop by the recent hurricane, it is declared that agricultural conditions in Jamaica are generally more favorable than at any time during the past eight years. Providing transportation difficulties can be overcome and a ready market for products is available, it is declared that the coming year should prove a banner one in the island's history.

Seasonable rains are now falling and the sugar estates are in splendid shape. The only doubtful staple is cotton, but this occupies a very minor position among the products of the island, in fact, it can scarcely be said to have gone beyond the experimental stage. In referring to the Sea Island cotton that has been growing in different localities with varying results, the chief of the agricultural department recently said: "It looks as though Sea Island cotton were too delicate and unreliable a staple to command an important place among the island's products grown for export."

On the other hand, some of the cotton growers are very optimistic, and declare that results averaging as high as $103 an acre have been attained in certain localities under favorable conditions. In other regions, however, the crop has been an entire failure, and the figures for the export values of cotton sustain the pessimistic opinion of the head of the agricultural department.

Experiments have been made during the past two years with a perennial variety called cauto cotton which is not subject to the same disabilities as Sea Island cotton and is naturally adapted for growing on rough limestone and rock country of which the island offers an unlimited acreage. It produces a good clean staple, coarse and strong, and compares favorably with the tough Peruvian variety, its growers declare. This variety was introduced into Jamaica by a syndicate which sought to keep the product entirely in its own hands by controlling, under cast iron agreements, all the cotton as well as the seeds produced. This attempt to create a monopoly, however, has entirely broken down and small settlers in increasing numbers are growing this variety of cotton. Further it is stated that reports from England on the cauto cotton are so encouraging that a large and immediate extension of the acreage under cultivation is contemplated.

MAKER OF NEWSPAPER MEN.

In the "Interesting People" department of the October American Magazine appears a picture sketch of Franklin Matthews of the School of Journalism at Columbia University, where young men are taught how to become newspaper reporters. In the following extract from the article appears an account of the "Blot," a practice newspaper made up by the students at the college under the direction of Professor Matthews:

"If anyone doubts the energy with which these boys attack the news of the day, let him repair to the city room some Monday afternoon or evening and watch the 'Morning Blot' in process of evolution. Thirty flat-topped desks equipped with typewriters, face the semicircular city desk. At his post of honor sits the city editor, a student, who directs the energies of the staff for this particular number.

"The editor-in-chief is busy taming down the bold lampoons of the editorial writers, the business manager must not be angered. A cartoon is being prepared for the editorial page, the policy of which demands 'neutrality and non-partisanship.'

"Several rewrite men are clipping and condensing stories from late editions of the afternoon papers. The business manager has selected his advertisements and is helping the make-up man arrange the dummy of heavy brown paper. The sporting and financial editors, in complete charge of their respective pages, are picking all-American football teams or analyzing the stock reports. One square-jawed lad is getting up a woman's page, with 'Hints to Housewives,' social notes, new dance steps and 'Beauty Hints from Mademoiselle Petite.'

"The telephone rings, and a rewriter dashes for the booth. It is the Police Headquarters man with a tip on a fire in the Bronx. The office immediately orders the district reporter in that neighborhood to cover the story and rush in the facts. Another call brings news of a suicide in Brooklyn, and the Brooklyn man is directed to call on the family and get the 'obit.' The City Hall man dashes in with a statement from the Mayor or a report from the Comptroller. The telephone brings a plea for aid from the Criminal Courts reporter, as a big story has broken at the Tombs and two are needed to cover it.

"Ten o'clock! The political reporter rushes in with Whitman's speech at Cooper Union. With a copy reader pulling it page by page from his machine, he dashes off a column of introduction, quotation and explanation.

"Eleven o'clock; The dramatic critic jumbs into the room, over a couple of chairs and into the nearest desk seat. He has cut the last act, rushed for the subway and now has twenty-three minutes in which to make or break a new Broadway production. Armed with a program and a few impressions, he hammers out the 'lead.'

"'Close the forms!' All over. If the 'Blot' was printed it would display an attractively arranged front page with a four-column war head, a Washington dispatch, Albany news, a map of the day's operations in Europe, a summary of the war moves, a murder, and a campaign speech. Christobel Pankhurst's interview and Andy Carnegie's birthday are used to fill up. The sporting page picks Harvard to win the eastern championship. The financial editor predicts a rise in stocks and a fall in the grain market. The editorial page analyzes Bernard Shaw's attitude. Caruso is in better shape than he had expected. Whitman is gaining in the up-state rural cities.

"Do the students do all this alone? Yes, practically, but under the eagle eye of Professor Matthews, who is the managing editor of the 'Blot.'"

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription, can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. COTTON STILL ON THE RISE

January Contracts Yesterday Sold for 12.15 on the New York Market. Spot Middling at 11.70.

New York, Sept. 25.—Still higher levels were reported in the cotton market here today with January contracts selling up to 12.15, or $5.60 per bale above the low level of last Monday and 28 points above last night's final figures, on a continuation of active general buying. Closing prices were strong at a net gain of from 20 to 25 points for the day.

Firm Liverpool cables, unfavorable weather, encouraging reports from the goods trade, rumors of very low private condition figures and bullish spot market advices were among the factors on the advance. The market opened firm and 9 to 14 points higher in response to cables, and quickly sold 17 to 22 points above last night's closing figures. It was reported that there was more Southern hedge selling here on this advance than on any day previously this month, and there was also heavy realization, but offerings were readily absorbed on reactions of 8 or 9 points from the best, and prices soon developed renewed firmness on a further broadening of Wall Street, commission house and trade demand. October contracts sold up to 11.58, December to 11.99 and March to 12.38 with the general list showing net gains of from 24 to 28 points. Offerings increased at this level and fluctuations were somewhat irregular late, but final prices were at practically the best point of the day. Reports that the disturbance in the Caribbean sea moving toward the gulf was of considerable intensity and the course of the low barometer west of the belt led to predictions of unsettled weather over Sunday and the private crop advices received during the day were of a bullish average. The larger amount of cotton on shipboard at the close last night 141,000 bales against 88,000 the previous week, encouraged the talk of increasing exports, and some of the local spot people reported an increasing demand from domestic spinners.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

All High Records for the Season Passed —Middling 11.25.

New Orleans, Sept. 25.—All high records for the season were again passed in the cotton market today, buying being in sufficient volume to offset heavy liquidation from profit-taking longs. The demand was stimulated by a better Liverpool than due, renewed warnings concerning the tropical storm, heavy rains in the west belt, lack of October tenders and a rise of 25 points in the spot department. At the best of the day prices were 22 to 23 points up. The close was 20 to 22 points up, on a steady tone.

about 15 points after which thefigwf

In the early trading prices rose about 15 points after which the market halted. Brisk bidding for October and posting of the tropical storm warning started the market upward again and this tendency was maintained until the close. January sold to 11.97, profit-taking around that level preventing its touching 12 cents. It was estimated that less than 2,500 bales of cotton were tendered against October and notices were promptly stopped. Bulls active in bidding for large lots of October showed their readiness to take up cotton on contracts. This proved one of the most bullish influences of the season. Trading was heavy throughout.

Futures closed steady at a net advance of 20 to 22 points. Closing October 11.43, December 11.81; January 11.95, March 12.24, May 12.45. Spot steady 25 points up. Sales on the spot 900 bales, to arrive 18.10, middling 11.25.

RAILWAYS AGAIN FEATURED

Free Absorption of Investment Shares —Gains Were Substantial—Records in Specialties.

New York, Sept. 25.—Free absorption of investment shares, chiefly the high class railways, on the largest scale witnessed in many weeks, was the distinguishing feature of today's two hour session in which transactions approximated 600,000 shares, or on the basis of 1,500,000 shares for a full day.

Gains in the railways were of a substantial character, Pennsylvania the most active stock of its class, advancing 2 3-4 points to 114 while Canadian Pacific, the Harrimans, New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio gained 1 to 2 points.

Specialties were not entirely neglected, Baldwin Locomotive gaining 2 3-8 to the new price of 95 5-8; while Lackawanna Steel, up 10 to 79 and Texas company, up 3 1-2 to 165 1-2, also surpassed all previous quotations.

Bethlehem Steel and a few other war shares made slight improvement on small dealings, but Bethlehem Steel preferred declined 13 to 170 and some of the less prominent industrials fell away moderately. United States Steel was less active than usual, but showed unyielding strength. Most of the motor issues showed the continued effects of realizing sales, but General Motors retained virtually all of its six point advance to 345.

The bank statement furnished a genuine surprise in that the estimated large cash gain proved to be an actual loss of almost $13,000,000. The Mercantile agencies reported a general expansion of trade. Bonds strong, with total sales, par value at $2,900,000. U. S. bonds unchanged on call during the week.

COTTON GOODS MARKETS STRONG AND ACTIVE DURING THE WEEK

Buying Stimulated and Prices Advance on Many Lines.

New York, Sept. 25.—Cotton goods markets have been strong and active with prices advancing on many lines. The buying has been stimulated by the rise in cotton a swell as by the more settled state of general affairs. Activity in wide print cloths has carried some prices a full half cent yard up from the prices current a month ago. Bleached cottons have been advanced 1-4c a yard. Dress ginghams, were reduced two weeks ago but sales have been free and advances are now predicted. Prints and percales have been selling freely for later delivery. Duck has been advanced twice and some grades are very scarce for quick delivery. Brown sheetings are very firm at higher levels. Many new colored goods are being offered and they are being accepted in the trade in lieu of the fast color goods hitherto standard in this country.

Quotations: Prin cloths, 28 inch, 64 by 64s, 3 3-8c, 74 by 60s, 3 1-4c, 38 1-2 inch 64 by 64s, 4 1-2c, brown sheetings, Southern standards, 6 1-2, denims, 9 ounce, indigoes 16 1-2c, other colors 14c, tickings 8 ounce 11 1-2c, staple ginghams 6 1-4c, prints 5 1-4c, dress ginghams 8 1-2.

HERE'S PROOF

A Wilmington Citizen Tells of His Experience.

You have a right to doubt statements of people living far away but can you doubt Wilmington endorsement?

Read it:

D. Benton, grocer, Fourth and Nun Sts., Wilmington, says: "Kidney trouble began after an attack of typhoid fever. The first I noticed was a dull, constant ache across my kidneys and it prevented me from getting any rest day or night. My kidneys were so congested that the kidney secretions were very scanty and burned in passage. When I got up in the morning, I felt so tired and lame that I could hardly dress myself. The least exertion played me out. My head ached and my eyes caused me a great deal of trouble. I was often so dizzy that I couldn't stand without taking hold of something to keep me from falling. I lost weight and was a physical wreck from head to feet. I tried everything, but nothing helped me and I was given up to die. Finally, I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Hall's Drug Store, and they permanently cured me. I am a strong, healthy man today and my kidneys are in good condition."

Price 50c., at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Benton had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
